DENIES SLAYING WOMAN

Own Sister Deals Knockout Blow to Story When She Tells of Kid's Visit

By Associated Press
Los Angeles, Calif. — Kid McCoy,
veteran of the prize ring whose cleaver fist fetched him fat purses and fighting renown more than a quarter of a century ago, sat in a jail cell
here Thursday facing the most desperate battle of his career—a fight to free himself of the charge of murdering a woman.

The woman, Mrs. Theresa Morse, divorced wife of a wealthy antique dealer, was found dead early Wednesday in the apartment she and McCoy
whose true name is Norman Selby, had occupied for several weeks as
"Mr. and Mrs. N. Shields." In her head was a .32 calibre bullet. Nearby was an automatic pistol of the same calibre and a note signed by McCoy bequeathing all his worldly possessions to his mother.

When McCoy was arrested several hours later after terrorizing employes
and patrons of two fashionable shops
and shooting and slightly wounding
three persons, he was stubbornly silent for a time, but finally talked freely.

"Mrs. Morse killed herself," he said, "and I shot at her with an insane rage to kill her husband, who drove her to it," to kill all those who stood in his way and finally to kill himself.

FATE GUARDS MAN
But fate hid Mrs. Morse from him and his plan to kill himself was lost in the swirl of events.

"I was going to kill myself," he said, "explaining the note found in the apartment, 'but I forgot.' Police believe portions of McCoy's story,
but declare that his suicide defense
has already received its knockout
blow from the 'Kidd's' own sister, Mrs. Jennie Thomas, whom he quoted as saying McCoy came to her home soon after the shooting of Mrs.
Morse and burst out with:

"I just had to kill that woman."

Late Wednesday night detectives called at the Thomas home but after confering with the woman's attorney
they agreed not to question her further, on the understanding that she would tell the complete story of McCoy's visit and alleged confession to District Attorney Asa Keyes Thursday.

McCoy, under re-grilling at the city jail, admitted that he had called on his sister soon after Mrs. Morse's death
"but couldn't remember what I told her or how long I stayed."

He clung to his suicide version of the shooting telling detectives that Mrs. Morse was driven to despair by her troubles with her former husband, that she had suddenly cried out that she "couldn't stand it any longer,"
and attempted to stab herself to death with a butcher knife. When this failed, he said, she took a pistol
from a dresser drawer and fired a bullet through her head before he could stop her.

PLANNED RECONCILIATION
Police declare, however, that what
Mrs. Morse really planned, was a reconciliation with her former husband and that McCoy's jealous rage
over this impending reconciliation led him to kill her, then to go out seeking to kill Mrs. Morse.

In his search for Mrs. Morse, he went to the Morse antique shop where,
according to his own story, he planned to shoot Mrs. Morse and then kill Mr.
and Mrs. Sam Schapp who operated a shop next door and who recently had made efforts to bring about a reconciliation between Mr. and Mrs.
Morse.

Police had actually did was to wound
William Rayner who happened to enter the Morse establishment, and Mr. and Mrs. Schapp, whom he persuaded into their shop when they refused to be lured into the Morse place.
None of the three was wounded seriously.

In telling of this shooting affray,
McCoy explained over and over again
that he had been drinking and that he was crazed with shock and grief
and out of his head.

Police for a time believed that Mc-Coy had found Morse and killed him
but after a search of several hours
his attorney announced his client was ready to be questioned.

RACINE POLICE BELIEVE
SLAYER IS IN HIDING

Racine—A sack of a man's blood-stained clothing found near the Northwestern tracks in this city strengthened the Racine police belief that the Wednesday night that George Karas-man, Armenian, charged with slaying
a countryman, Mike Nichinia, Sunday at a Carrollville picnic, is in hiding here.

The sack was found by a rag picker
on a refuse pile, where it is believed to have been thrown by the supposed murderer, probably from a moving train or an automobile. It contained a macinaw, a shirt and two suits of underwear, corresponding in part to descriptions of clothing worn by the man sought by the police.

The accused Armenian has friends
in this city, and some of them were called to the police station and questioned closely Wednesday night in the hope of determining his whereabouts.

DAWES REPORT
SAFE DESPITE

Secretary of State Denies Agreement Hinges on Evac-

By Associated Press
New York, Thursday — Secretary of State
Hughes, returning Thursday on the President Harding after a month's visit in Europe, expressed the belief that the Dawes reparations report
would be accepted by all the powers concerned and would "be put into effect very soon."

Mr. Hughes said that in his opinion acceptance of the report, he said,
"will not hinge upon any such hypothesis. Unquestionably the report will be accepted."

Referring to dispatches stating that newspaper of Soviet Russia had charged that his visit to Europe was solely for the purpose of preventing European countries from entering into relations with the Russian government, Mr. Hughes said:

"I did not discuss Russian affairs
over there."

Mr. Hughes said there was no truth in reports that Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador to France,
would soon resign.

Conferences with Officials of Federation and with Roe
on LaFollette's Card

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — Engagements
of Senator LaFollette's calendar Thursday included conferences with three American Federation of Labor officials who desired to discuss with him the endorsement of his presidential candidacy by the federation's executive council, and with Gilbert E.
Roe, his eastern campaign manager
with headquarters in New York City.

Frank Morrison, James O'Connell
and Martin F. Ryan, the labor chiefs, took advantage of the meeting here
on the federation's national Non-Partisan political campaign committee to call on the senator for the first time since the council took its action. The committee went into a three-day conference Wednesday for consideration of campaign activities affecting the candidacies of members of congress
as well as those of Mr. LaFollette and his running mate, Senator Wheeler of Montana.

On his way to Washington, Mr.
Roe stopped off at Wilmington, Del., to size up prospects for the independent ticket in that state. He is supervising the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign in New England as well as in five states along the north Atlantic seaboard.

COMINGS ISSUES
DEFI TO BLAINE

By Associated Press
Milwaukee — George F. Comings, lieutenant governor and candidate for governor on the Republican ticket, challenged Governor Blaine to a joint debate on the tax question. The challenge was made by Mr. Comings at a noonday meeting here. "I here and now challenge his claim that his
has been an economical administration," Mr. Comings said. "Expenditures during his first term as governor were in round numbers $6,000, 600 more than that during the previous administration."

"I challenged the governor to a joint debate on the tax question and I repeat that his statement in relation to the tax situation is false," Mr.
Comings said.

MOROCCAN REBELS ARE REPULSED WITH LOSSES

By Associated Press
Madison — Continued activity by the rebels in the Spanish zone of Morocco is reported in an official communiqué issued Thursday morning.

The rebels in the western zone attacked a war supply column in the Buharra sector but were repulsed with some losses. One Spanish soldier was killed and four were wounded. Attacks on a convoy near Al-hucemas were made Monday and again Wednesday. The rebels in both cases were beaten off, the commu-

Delegates Hope American or British Intervention May Save Program Which Allies
Have Agreed Upon.

London—The deadlock between the French and the Germans on the question of the time limit for the military evacuation of the Ruhr is imperiling the success of the international conference, it was indicated Thursday after a hurried meeting of the French, Belgian and German premiers at Downing Street early Thursday morning had failed to produce tangible results.

Delegates to the conference hope and expect, however, that American or British intervention will save the program which the allies have agreed upon for instituting the Dawes reparation plan.

After the meeting between Premier Herriot of France, Premier Theunis of Belgium, and Chancellor Marx of Germany which lasted about 20 minutes, American Ambassador Frank B.
Kellogg and American Representative James A. Logan, Jr., rushed to the American embassy and joined Owen D. Young and the other American experts on the Dawes plan to consider what action they might take to solve the new complications.

The Germans returned to their hotel, where direct cables to Berlin carried the news of the unfavorable turn in the conference to the members of the German cabinet at the other end of the wire. After a brief German cabinet meeting, negotiated
by the cables which were exchanged directly with Wilhelmstrasse, Chancellor Marx and Foreign Minister Stresemann returned to Downing Street at 12.30.

"BIG FOURTEEN" MEETS
At 2.15 Chancellor Marx visited M.
Herriot at the latter's hotel. It was estimated that the German chief delegat might have brought with him the German answer on all important Ruhr questions.

The negotiations between the French, Belgians and Germans were to be resumed at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon after which there will be a meeting of the "Big Fourteen."

The French delegates declare that they have agreed upon one year as the maximum time for the evacuation of the Ruhr with reduction of that period only if special conditions warrant them.

The one year period will begin with the date of the signing of the London agreement.

On his return to his hotel after the morning conference, M. Herriot said:
"The allies are with us and we are in complete control of the situation."

At the conclusion of the conference between Premier Herriot and the German chancellor which lasted nearly an hour, it was announced that there was nothing that could be made public.

American Ambassador Kellogg issued a statement through the embassy denying a published report that he has issued an ultimatum to the Germans in support of the French plan providing a year for the military evacuation of the Ruhr. Mr.
Kellogg's position, it is stated, is one of neutrality regarding this issue.

The significance of the controversy
was not apparent on the surface but it dates back to the fight over the allotment of tickets at Madison Square Garden and was not, as has been suggested in some quarters, an effort to punish a McAdoo leader.

Had there been any concerted effort on the part of the anti-McAdoo forces to show their feeling they logically would have opposed the selection of Samuel Amidon of Kansas who was selected as vice chairman. Mr. Amidon has been one of the staunchest of the McAdoo group
but he was chosen unanimously.

Bruce Kremer of Montana, however,
who as vice chairman had the unpleasant task of handling the tickets, incurred several enemies and they came home to roost at the national committee meeting.

The quarrel, however, was really a tempest in a teapot and would never have developed a protracted debate
but for a parliamentary tangle which the inexperienced new chairman, Clem Shaver, was unable on the one hand to straighten out. He was, on the other, reluctant to inject himself in the row because of the possible after effects.

Mr. Shaver is a docile man of conciliatory disposition and he did not feel that he should begin his job by attempting to iron out personal animosities. Before the national committee began its meeting
there was talk of punishing Mr.
Emily Newall Blair for her alleged activities in behalf of McAdoo because, as vice chairman, she was supposed to be neutral. She insists she was. But some of the ambitious women who wanted her job used it as an excuse for an attack. The fight
did not develop, however, and Mrs.
Blair was unanimously re-elected vice chairman. It was a tribute to her indefatigable efforts in the committee and part of a program of contin-ing in power the existing officers because of their familiarity with the work of organization.

Debate Of Democrats

Controversy in National Com-

Washington, D. C. — Much curiosity seems to have manifested itself here
as to whether the acrimonious debate in the Democratic national com-

sages a continuance of factional war-

FARMER PICNIC
BRINGS 10,000

Huge Crowd Is Attracted to City by First Farm Union Festival

BY W. F. WINSEX
Ten thousand men, women and children, coming from every nook
and corner of Outagamie co., milled about Pierce park Wednesday in the first annual Farm Union festival. It was one of the largest crowds ever in the park. Not less than 2,500 automobiles were parked on the grass
or on streets leading to the park.

It was a big picnic and an opportunity for farmers to get together and get acquainted. Farmers from the northern tier of towns shook hands and exchanged ideas with farmers in Buchanan and Dale, and men from the west talked over their problems with farmers from the east.
The picnic probably was the biggest and most successful get-together affair for farmers ever held in this part of the state.

SHORT PROGRAM
No lengthy program was arranged
but the visitors found plenty to keep them interested. They trooped from the "Congress of Women," a collection of frank from Outagamie co.
farms, to the refreshment stands,
and then to the bandstands where the Appleton and Seymour bands were playing.

The only formal program of the afternoon was succession of short talks by presidents of farm organizations of Outagamie co. who briefly described the purposes of their organizations.

Harry J. Fox, president of the Outa-gamie County union of the American Society of Equity, enumerated the purposes of the Equity association and asserted that one of the big things that had been accomplished

DAVIS PLANS FIGHT
IN QUIET OF HOME

Democratic Nominee Seeks to Attract Army of Independ-

By Associated Press
Lonest Valley, N. Y. — Here in the quiet of his Long Island home John W. Davis began to plot out Thursday
the strategy of the offensive campaign which he will conduct in a drive to return the administration of government to Democratic control.

Without awaiting disclosure of the main plan of the enemy in the address Thursday night of President Coolidge accepting the Republican nomination, the Democratic presidential candidate has made up his mind
to wage his fight all along the line up on the issues which he is convinced will recruit a great army of independent voters.

Turning first to the west as a main battle ground, he has called into conference Senator Pittman of Nevada,
one of his general staff, for discussion
of the itinerary of his westward
march which is to take him at least as far as Denver Colo.

Having first his first broadside in his acceptance address at Clarkburg, W. Va., last Monday, Mr. Davis will open his second attack in Ohio the week after next and probably will follow that up with offensives in Illinois and the Mississippi valley.

Night's Landing, California — Be-

smouldering ruins of the River Farms barn fire which Tuesday is believed to have taken a toll of approximately 20 lives excavation work to recover
charred bodies will not be possible un-

This was the statement made Thursday by the coroner after an in-

Although it has been learned that about 50 men were in the barn when the fire started only seven have re-

GIRL INSTIGATED
RIVAL'S MURDER,
SHERIFF CHARGES

Sweetheart of Woman's Slayer Demands Cigarettes While Telling Story

By Associated Press
Benton Harbor, Mich. — Florence
McKinney, the pretty, 14-year-old sweetheart of Emil Zupke, Thursday is charged by Sheriff George Bridgman with being the instigator of a secret pact that resulted in the killing of Cora May Raber.

But by bit, according to the sheriff,
the laughing country girl has admitted that she knew her rival for Zupke's affections was to "be done away with."

Zupke and the girl were arrested
on Tuesday night after he had broken down and admitted that he had choked Miss Raber to death and his sweetheart had voluntarily surrendered and confessed that she was with him when the crime was committed.

Zupke related how he choked Miss Raber who was soon to have become a mother, after she had refused to leave him from a promise to marry her so that he could wed Miss Mc-Kinney.

"Zupke and his youthful sweetheart
Thursday face first degree murder charges. The girl, bob-haired and composed, talks freely, interrupting
her story of the slaying with demands for cigarettes. Zupke, a farmer youth who was turned off by his father's farm
because of his "wild ways," is as composed. Dressed in overalls, he spends much of his time brushing back his olive locks.

Shown the shoes that the slain woman had purchased intending to wear them to her wedding with Zupke
the night he killed her, he declared:
"They don't mean anything to me;
when do we eat?"

LEOPOLD UNEXCITED
"Leopold did not seem at all excited, and was quite cool and collected,"
said Dr. Patrick.

The questioning for ten minutes
pursued the apparently aimless trend
of the last 30 minutes Wednesday, finally reaching the statement that
"more than 15 persons were present."
When Dr. Patrick examined Leopold, score of questions gaining the point
after Bachrach enumerated 16 who were present.

"Did you ever in your life make an examination on a mental condition
under such conditions?" asked Mr.
Bachrach, reaching the point Mr.
Darrow admitted Wednesday "might or might not be 'in view.' 'I think not,' replied Dr. Patrick. "When they were all assembled, how did the meeting open?" asked Mr. Bachrach.

"The story of the crime was told over again. I think at the request of Mr.
Crowe, who made the remark about Patrick. He suggested that we observe which of the crime may have been there for an examination.
We listened in and asked some questions afterward."

Mr. Bachrach asked that Dr. Patrick tell him what the youth had said about the crime.

"Oh, gee, must I tell all that again?" almost gasped the doctor.
"Yes as minutely as you can," urged
Mr. Bachrach.

Dr. Patrick drew a long breath, settled back in his chair, and for a time, the number of which no one remembers the story of the kidnaping and murdering of Bobby Franks again went into the voluminous record of the hearing.

BALLARD WANTS TO CHANGE HIS BUREAU

Treasury Inspector Urges Full Time Deputy Treasury Agents

Madison — Reorganization of the state treasury agent's department, reduction of the number of inspectors with all inspectors on full time basis, is recommended by C. B. Ballard, state treasury agent, in his annual report submitted to Governor Blaine today.

The report declares that because of the small salaries received by inspectors and the uncertainty of income, it is impossible to obtain workers who will devote their entire time to the work. He further estimates that because of this condition, twenty per cent of the transient salesmen in the state are not paying the required license fee.

CIGARET AND GASOLINE CAUSE FIRE IN STREET

Spilled gasoline and cigarette stubs are not a safe combination. It was again demonstrated at about 5:45 Wednesday evening when a blaze started on the pavement in front of the Joseph Grishaber grocery store at 787 Lake-st thereby endangering the store and a nearby automobile.

The fire department was summoned, but the blaze was diminished considerably when the apparatus arrived. Gasoline was spilled on the pavement near the street pump and ignited from a live cigarette stub thrown upon it. It caused a big fire, but the automobile was quickly moved out of danger.

WARM IN ITALY

Albert Ogilvie, an employee of Downer's Pharmacy, who is spending the summer in Europe, is at present at Street Italy, where he says the climate is very warm. He went there from his former home in Scotland and expects to tour the continent before returning to Appleton next month.

470 BAPTIZED AT ONCE!

As a band played, "Oh, Happy Day!" and their comrades chanted hymns, 470 members of the International Bible Students were baptized in a park bathing pool at Columbus, O. The ceremony, which was public, took place during the organization's world convention. The women wore heavy black cloaks over their bathing suits.

cation of tubercular cattle from the dairy herds of the county through agitation of the subject and demonstrations at Greenville and Black Creek.

W. G. Jamison, president of the Guernsey Breeders' Association said he was one of the first to raise pure bred Guernsey cattle in Outagamie county and soon after starting, he thought it would be wise to form an organization for the promotion of this particular breed. One of the advantages is that when buyers visit the county they find all animals for sale listed and an officer who directs them to the places where purchases are possible. Another advantage is that herds of members of the association are free from bovine tuberculosis and so man can become a member before he has had his herd tested or has promised to do so.

OLDEST IN COUNTY

R. G. Schaefer spoke for the South Greenville Grange. He said that the grange is the oldest cooperative association of farmers in Outagamie county. The South Greenville Grange celebrated its fiftieth anniversary last year. Its meetings are held every Saturday and since its origin not a meeting has been missed. The grange buys and sells about the same as does any other farmers' cooperative association. It has legislative functions and maintains a legislative committee at Washington. The grange is interested in education and entertainment.

PUT NEW HYDRANTS IN BUSINESS AREA

Larger Stream of Water Will Mean Better Fire Protection

A crew of the Appleton water department is changing hydrants in the business district of the city, as was authorized by the city council. The old hydrants are being replaced by larger hydrants equipped with larger supply pipes that will permit a greater volume of the water and thus afford better fire protection in the business district and near Lawrence college. The department thus far has completed installations of new hydrants at the following intersections: Union-st and College-ave; Drew-st and College-ave; Durkee-st and College-ave; Washington and Appleton-ets; Oneida and Lawrence-ets. About 15 new hydrants will be installed in the area between Union-st and Superior-st this year, and possibly a like number will be installed next year to extend as far as Locust-st.

Supply lines leading from the hydrants to the mains are being increased to 8 inches in diameter, or a minimum of 6 inches. The old ones were only 4 inches in diameter. The work is being done without shutting off the water.

ers' association said that one of the purposes of his association was the spread of certified seed and to advertise Outagamie-co grown grain to better advantage.

E. A. Kirklin said that the Center Valley Livestock Shippers' association was organized in 1918. It has now a membership of 150. The past year it handled 55 cars of livestock and 18 cars of grain.

A. G. Bruzwick gave an instructive talk on cooperation as a representative of the Black Creek Creamery.

Games and contests entertained the picnicers during the afternoon. Prizes were offered winners of the games as follows: Crackers eating contest, Morris Anderson, Bear Creek; Peanut contest, Julia McGinnis, 1201 Emily-st; wheelbarrow race, Raymond VanBerkel, 1119 Franklin-st; and Henry Nabbefeldt, 1105 Franklin-st; ball-throwing contest, Violet Bodmer, 1115 Fifth-st; and Arthur Lemke; shoe race for boys and girls, Eleanor Kurasch, Kernan-ave and Harold Lucht, Melvin-st; pipe-lighting contest, Elmer Rasmussen, 715 Madison-st; three legged race, Leo Hoffernus, 850 Morrison-st; sack race, Max Koenigseder, 1007 Lorain-st; girls running race, Adeline Huebner, Dale, Martha Lemke, Hortonville and Dorothy Van Corps, 289 Mason-st.

Red Seal Records

Good-Bye Serenade (Toselli)	Rosa Ponselle	6453	$2.00
Two Tosti songs in English—the immortal "Good-Bye" and the dainty Serenade. And how Ponselle does sing them! To hear these records is to know why she is a Victor artist.
Spanish Dance (Sarasate)	Efrem Zimbalist	6451	2.00
Humoresque (York Bowen)	Efrem Zimbalist
The first records of display character this sterling artist has made for some time. A bewitchingly beautiful Sarasate dance and a madly capricious Humoresque by a living English composer. Records you will want to hear and own.

Concert Songs and Instrumental

Love is Mine (Teichmüller-Gartner)	Richard Crooks	45422	1.00
For You Alone (O'Reilly-Geehl)	Richard Crooks
Love-songs of intense beauty. Whether or not you have had the experience—the exaltation, the transfiguration, the pain—these tenor records will thrill you.
Devotion (Haben)	Victor Herbert's Orchestra	55223	1.50
Sweethearts-Selection (Haben)	Victor Herbert's Orchestra
His own "Devotion" was the last work ever conducted for us by Victor Herbert, and this record is the last we ever can issue from his own hand. It is fitting to the occasion.

Light Vocal Selections

Hinky Dinky Parlay Voo	Billy Murray-Ed Smalle	19388	.75
We Don't Get Much Money, But We Have a Lot of Fun	Billy Murray-Ed Smalle
Comic hits—one of them filled with war-time reminiscence, and the other a play on juvenile pastimes and popular songs. Delightful records—plenty of swing and go, and full of humor.

Folk Dances

(1) Broom Dance (2) Bummel Schottische	Victor Band	19348	.75
(1) Gossiping Ulla (2) On the Bridge of Avignon	Victor Band
Records of old-world dances, issued for educational purposes. Splendid numbers for the community celebration, or the family hour.

Dance Records

Walla-Walla-Fox Trot (from "Flossie") with vocal refrain	Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra	19389	.75
Dixie's Favorite Son-Fox Trot
Whiteman fox trots in comic style. The first has amusing echoes, for various instruments, of an amusing vocal refrain; the second is brilliant but amusing, too. No matter how many Whiteman records you have, you'll also want this one.
Pickin' 'Em Up and Layin' 'Em Down -Fox Trot	The Benson Orchestra of Chicago	19386	.75
The Doodle-um Blues-Fox Trot
Finely melodious fox trots—splendid hot-weather numbers that will last you through the winter. Easily danced to, and lasting in appeal. Records you will want to keep handy.
Rock-a-Bye My Baby Blues-Waltz	The Troubadours with melody	19387	.75
Tears of Happiness-Waltz	The Benson Orchestra of Chicago
The first number is an excellent waltz in the popular manner, with a vocal refrain based on "Emmett's Lullaby"; the other has deep-toned melodies with plenty of strings. Records that adequately fulfill every wish of the dancer.

AUG. 26 WILL BE REGISTRATION DAY BEFORE PRIMARIES

Expect Exceptionally Large
Poll List at Elections
This Year

Voters will begin mobilizing for primary election day in less than two weeks. Tuesday, Aug. 26, will be registration day in Appleton, and all who expect to cast their ballots in the primary and general elections this fall will be given an opportunity to establish their qualifications for voting.

Those who do not register on registration day will be given another opportunity to do so at the primaries, for primary election day also is a registration day, according to the statutes. The three election inspectors and the two ballot clerks who are authorized to act as the election board at each precinct also constitute the board of registrars.

Boundary lines of the six wards and twelve precincts are defined and voters are required to register in their own precinct stations. The stations will be open from 9 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock in the evening.

A number of young voters who have attained majority since the last registration day two years ago will be permitted to vote if they register. A larger poll list is expected this fall because of the fact that this is presidential election year.

BITE AND CURSE EACH OTHER IN FURIOUS FIGHT

Men Fighting in Rapid Flume Struggle Amid Floating Logs

Cursing, fighting, biting, kicking, slapping each other, one of the most human struggles ever witnessed was viewed by two mounted police in the northwest of Canada as two men fought out their hatred of each other as they whirled down a rapid log flume in the lumber country. With the logs thumping and bumping them; first one submerged under the water then the other they fought out their feud gaining momentum with every foot.

The police were in search of one of them "Diamond" Carlisle, the notorious gambler who had recently held up a messenger and stolen $10,000. This is one of the big situations in the photoplay feature "Diamond" Carlisle at the New Bijou Friday and Saturday. In the stellar role George Ebersole plays the part of "Diamond" Carlisle.

In the latter part of the story he is known as Jack Taylor a professional gambler. He refuses to play a crooked game. When he learns that the proprietor is after the rich and of Dick Boyd to whom he is owing money for gambling he cannot raise his hand as he is in the employ of "Black" Meyer, the proprietor. He later meets Mae Boyd, who is led to believe that she is Dick's wife. When Dick is arrested by the mounted police who believe he is "Diamond" Carlisle, Taylor decides to take a hand and secures from Boyd information as to where he has hid the money.

While Boyd is in jail, Taylor dressed as "Diamond" hold up the saloon and returns the money. This puzzles everyone as they cannot understand how Dick Boyd, if he is "Diamond" Carlisle can be in the saloon and at the same time in the jail.

This act liberated Boyd and wins the gratitude of Mae.

TAYLOR HOLMES NOTED AS GREAT FARCE PLAYER

Taylor Holmes supporting George Ebersole in the new Selznick-Distinctive production "20 a Week" is generally acknowledged as one of America's greatest farceurs. On the Broadway stage he has been starred in such outstanding successes as "His Majesty, Sunkin Bean," "The Commuters," "The Third Party," and "The Million."

The screen producers early realized Holmes' possibilities and the old Ebersole company engaged him to appear in "Efficiency Edgar's Courtship" in which his success was immediate, following that he appeared in many notable pictures such as "The Small Town Guy," "Ruggles of Red Gap," "A Pair of Sixes," "The Rainbow Chaser," "Uncle Money," "Taxi," "Upside Down," "Nothing But the Truth" and "The Very Idea."

Holmes is said to have done some very remarkable work in "20 a Week," the Selznick-Distinctive production which is the feature attraction at the Elite Theatre, beginning today and playing for 3 days.

BOGAN HAD STREAK OF LUCK THIS TIME

Wilbur Bogan, county motorcycle officer who is still nursing injuries he suffered in an accident on the Little Chute road last week, again had a close call Thursday morning when he narrowly missed colliding with an automobile on the same highway.

The near accident occurred at a farmer's driveway. Bogan said he was riding along on his motorcycle at a speed of about 20 miles an hour when the farmer whom he was following suddenly and without warning turned left into the driveway.

Realizing that motorists of the road have often been in the same predicament, Officer Bogan renewed his warning which he made some time ago calling upon drivers to signal with their hands before turning into a driveway.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK

The National Industrial Conference board in a mid-year bulletin holds that the business tide has turned. It says, "During July, 1924, a considerable betterment in sentiment has taken place, for although production has not increased considerably prices are firmer and inquires with regard to orders are more numerous. Trading sources indicate that June marked the low point in business so far this year, and that the turning point has been reached. The belief that business this fall will be good is quite genuine."

This opinion coincides with reports from most parts of the country. There has been a decidedly optimistic tone in manufacturing and trading circles. Some industries which have been at a low ebb for several months have within the last thirty days picked up considerably and report the prospects for increased sales as excellent. The steel business is holding up and experts for the first six months of 1924 were 7.4 greater in value than for the first six months of 1923, and for every 1,000 men employed in June, 1920, which was a year of unusual prosperity, there were 781 employed in May, 1924. This cannot be regarded as a serious relapse so far as employment is concerned.

There is a widespread feeling that business is to improve noticeably by fall and that the year will close with a favorable showing. If this spirit continues, it will have no little to do with actually making business good.

THE PANAMA CANAL

The Panama canal has been in service for ten years. Has it warranted its construction? The story of its usefulness must be proved by the statistics. Nowadays we do not consider whether a work of this kind is primarily of value for military purposes. Formerly military strategy was, with us, as with other nations, of first importance. No matter how beneficial an improvement for transportation might have been to commerce, it was undesirable if it seemed to afford an enemy some facility for attacking us in war.

Great Britain, we presume, is as peace-loving as we. Yet that government decided recently not to approve the project of tunneling the English Channel between Dover and Calais because the undersea road could not be protected satisfactorily in the event of war. Great Britain seemingly does not trust too implicitly in the prospects of abiding peace in Europe as long as large standing armies are maintained.

Statistics show that 107,910,991 tons of cargo have passed through the Panama canal in ten years. This is an average of 10,000,000 tons a year. Tolls amounted to $97,802,818 in ten years, or averaged nearly $10,000,000 annually. Westbound traffic for the ten years was 42,175,713 and eastbound 65,735,278.

The canal was opened August 15, 1914, and in the ten and one-half months of that fiscal year 4,888,454 tons of cargo moved through it. The growth of traffic has been steady. In this last fiscal year, 1923, the cargo carried was 27,218,928 tons. The tonnage in 1923 was six times larger than in 1914. Commerce will increase year after year through this canal, and this generation probably will see the building of the Te-huantepec canal begun. The Panama canal will be one of the great trade channels of the world. Its use will grow tremendously in the future. Western world development assures this.

POST BY AIR MAIL

The Air mail service from coast to coast has now been in operation for more than a month. Although this is a short time, the results have justified the expense to which the government has gone to give the service. In this period weather conditions have been none too favorable, with severe storms, yet the planes have covered the route each day without failure or mishap. The first month the pilots flew 178,910 miles with no serious accident.

Of course, the air mail service is not yet paying. It is costing the government more to operate it than it receives in revenue. It is only a matter of time, however, until it will be self-sustaining. It offers such obvious advantages over transmission of mail by trains that business and the public at large will soon be using it extensively. It will not be long until new routes are established and the sending of mail by air becomes the general practice between the large centers of the country, and along the chief routes of commerce.

The air service is available to all parts of the country which have mail matter for delivery at any of the landing places along its route. Persons in Green Bay for instance can have mail delivered in New York, San Francisco and intermediate points much sooner by using air mail than by train. Business men and other correspondents should keep this in mind and support the postoffice department in its laudable effort to make air mail transmission standard and self-sustaining.

THE QUANTITY OF DANGER

The hazard on the streets and highways, in city and country, is greater than the fatalities and injuries. The hazard is greater than the accidents. The problem in the promotion of safety lies in minimizing the hazard. Traffic accidents now cause 15,000 deaths a year and 100,000 injuries.

Stand at any congested street corner or any crossroads where traffic is heavy and note the hazard which prevails. Very few of the drivers observe safety regulations. Some of them cut corners to the left and run on the right side of approaching vehicles. Some crowd into the middle of street or road, and increase the congestion. Some jam their cars into small space in front of other cars. Some give no signals of any kind. Some speed their cars. Some do not take the trouble to observe the positions or movements of other cars.

The wonder is not so much that there are 15,000 deaths a year and 100,000 injuries, but that there are not more. The National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters plans a nationwide campaign of education to reduce the number of accidents by diminishing the traffic hazard. It proposes to have public departments, civic clubs, schools and educational institutions of cities and counties join in "safety first" education. All accidents cannot possibly be averted. But the number can be decreased.

IN A BOOKCASE

In everyone's home there's a bookcase, no doubt. Let's see what it holds, for a minute. Just what are the books that are there, starting out? 'Tis easy for us to see in it.
A little "Third Reader" that's almost forlorn is a memento of sonny's school day. Its pages are frayed and its cover is torn, but the folks hate to throw it away.
Some love-story novels that sister has bought are books that with thrillers suffice. Both mother and sister have quickly been caught by these tales and they've read them through twice.
A history set of which dad proudly boasts, although it has never been read, is not half as good as his pamphlet of toasts 'cause he turns to the latter instead.
Yea, what a collection you'll usually find, how different each person will choose. The old dictionary's the only real kind that the whole bloomin' family will use.

SOPHOMORIC ACNE

We discussed the management of freshmank pimples the other day. This is an advanced discussion. Ordinarily little crops of puberty pimples are practically physiological and scarcely call for treatment. But when the pimples begin to get pretentious, persistent and sopheroric there is some occasion to try a few remedies, just for luck.
Acne consists of a crop of pimples, commonly associated with comedones (blackheads) upon the face and sometimes on the chest and back. Artificial acne is often caused by the local irritations of oils in various occupations, and such acne appears upon the arms or thighs or other exposed surfaces but usually not on the face. Acne may be caused by certain drug taken internally, notably bromids and iodids (and these are common ingredients of various nostrums which credulous people take). Sophomores are credulous people. When I was a sophomore I seriously entertained the idea of consulting one of those advertising quacks about my pimples, but thank fortune I didn't.
Acne is no respecter of social classes and is not evidence of lack of care of the skin. It is not evidence of any particular functional irregularity or of any wrong habit. If it has any special significance at all it is merely that the sweat and oil glands of the skin are unusually active at the period of adolescence.

Some great skin specialists have ascribed the chief role in the causation of acne to a microbacterium, notably Unna, Hodara and Sabouraud. According to Sabouraud, comedones are due to infection with the specific microbacterium of acne. American skin specialists have not accepted Sabouraud's teaching, however. The accepted view in this country is that the blackheads first develop from physiological and mechanical causes and then the sebaceous or oil follicles about the blackheads (or whiteheads, whichever the comedones may be) become infected with the common pus-producing germs, causing pimples or young boils. Sabouraud holds the specific seborrheic microbacterium is the cause of the comedones, but he teaches that secondary infection with various staphylococci must occur to produce the pimples. The American authorities merely maintain that Sabouraud's theory does not square well with the general characteristics of acne. In my eyes it seems to square as well as most of the accepted theories of etiology do with the known characteristics of a disease. And Sabouraud's teaching is not merely a theory, for he has shown that one form of seborrhea, dandruff, may be communicated by inoculation. More over, the most successful methods of treatment of various forms and degrees of acne are based upon the infection theory. This is not to imply that there is anything "catching" about seborrhea (excessive oiliness of skin and scalp) or simple dandruff.

Whether systemic or constitutional factors are of importance in the causation of acne is a question which the experts are not agreed upon. At any rate there is precious little if anything gained by treatment with such systemic or constitutional remedies as iron, arsenic, and various "correctives" of digestion and various empirical or arbitrary restrictions or diet.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Sounds Like Big Trust
What is meant by gastro optics, also entro optics? Will X-ray cure such conditions? Mrs. H. J. L.
Answer.—Gastroptosis means sagging stomach; entropoptosis means sagging intestine. X-ray has no effect on such conditions. Many of us have gastroptosis or entropoptosis or both and experience no ill results. A diagnosis of either or both condition made by X-ray examination alone is therefore worthless.
Baby Needs More Sleep
Our 21 months old baby sleeps about 11 hours in each 24. Is that sufficient? (Mrs. W. G. S.)
Answer.—No. The baby requires about 14 hours of sleep. Under six months a baby needs about 16 or 18 hours of sleep daily. From six months to a year, 16 or 15 hours. From a year to two years 15 hours. Two to four years 13 to 12 hours. From four to seven years a child needs 12 to 11 hours of sleep. From seven to 14 years, 10 hours of sleep daily. Much harm is done by keeping babies and young children up long after dark.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Thursday, Aug. 17, 1899.

George C. Jones returned from a business trip to Marquette.
George Downer, superintendent of the county insane asylum, was to entertain a group of friends at a yacht ride the day following.
The Congregational church Sunday school was to give its annual excursion to DePere on Aug. 20.
Bert Jones and sister, Miss Gertrude Jones, were visiting Oshkosh friends.
W. H. Burn and W. J. Mory returned from a several weeks eastern trip.
The Northwestern Railway company placed an order for 50 Samson car movers with G. D. Rowell & Co.
The supreme court of Wisconsin rendered a decision in favor of the defendant in the case of Patton Paper company et al., vs. Green Bay & Mississippi Canal company.
The employees of the Shattuck & Babcock company at DePere were paid for the last time by the original owners of the new papermill which had just been transferred to the American Writing Paper company.
The new Wisconsin game law was to go into force the first of the following month and after that every hunter was to be required to take out a license.
The Riverside Fibre company which lost 1,600 pounds of copper recovered it in Chicago, where it had been shipped in bags from Appleton.

TEN YEARS AGO

Thursday, Aug. 13, 1914.

The entire German army was hammering at the French Belgian lines. Following a night of terror in which the German forces attempted repeatedly to break through the French Belgian front, it was announced today that the Belgian positions were maintained. Orders were issued to the British fleet in the Mediterranean to strike against the Austrians. The British foreign office at London handed the Austrian ambassador his passport. The Central news published a dispatch from its Tokyo correspondent claiming that Japan had agreed to assist the English in an attack on the German naval base at Tsingtau. The general American relief board chartered six American steamships which were to be sent abroad to rescue stranded Americans. An President of the American Red Cross, President Wilson issued a national appeal for funds for relief of sick and wounded soldiers.
Sugar took another jump, sending the price to $7.20 per hundred pounds wholesale.
Mr. and Mrs. Grant Phillips returned from a fishing and camping trip to Arbor Vitae.
Mr. and Mrs. Louis Briggs and Miss Josephine Pierce were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Meyer at Antigo.

THE TRAFFIC AUTOCRAT

No more austere was buccaner That averted the mighty fleets; No more the top than traffic cop, The king of city streets.
Staunch ruler bold, he braves the cold And storms that chill the bone, Detering not his kindly lot— A manhole for a throne.

Where e'er streets meet, he rules a fleet Of speeding motor cars And roaring trucks that jeopardize This fleeting life of ours. Sternarbiter of traffic laws, No puppet king is he, And every foot that breaks a rule Knows his authority.

Flivver Bug.

With the personality of the frame cop removed, the automatic "Stop" and "Go" signal that they are planning for College Ave. and Oneida st. will never put the fear of God in motorists like Mr. Brass Buttons can.

Report says there are enough automobiles in the country now to carry the entire population. "But the trouble is," comments Mac, "they won't stop and pick you up." "But it seems to me," reflected Looie, brother of Honus, "that I've carried half the population already." That shows there will be unceasing warfare between motorist and pedestrian, even with the League of Nations functioning.

Gov. Blaine told people here that there are 10,000 gasoline stations in the state. Why, that's almost as thick as the saloons were a few years ago. And they don't give away any free lunches either.

They say that as result of the flood the people of Fond du Lac have to boil their water before they drink it. Well, we'd sooner have boiled water in Fond du Lac than a water boil on our neck.

And now they're trying to prove Leeb crazy because he shaves twice a week. What will become of those who shave every day? Hobo Bill must be an intellectual giant.

Only Half Of U.S. Vote Is Cast At Polls

Americans choose election day as a desirable date for an at-home.

Nearly one-half of the voters of the United States fail to perform their civic duty as electors. The largest vote ever cast for president was in 1920. The total vote for all presidential candidates was 26,718,832, this being 3,000,000 more votes than were cast in 1916, and 11,000,000 more than in 1912. Yet for every 100 votes cast for president in 1920 there were 98 stay-at-homes or absentee—the total stay-at-home vote reaching the vast aggregate of 25,703,063.

The total is arrived at after deducting 8,467,325 disqualified citizens of 21 years or over, including about 6,200,000 alien or naturalized foreign borns and 2,000,000 illiterate citizens, white and colored, disfranchised under the election laws of 12 southern states. The stay-at-home vote is not characteristic of any particular section, but is more or less common to every section, north or south, east or west.

That the stay-at-home habit is growing at an ominous rate is disclosed by this 24-year review in Collier's Weekly. In 1884, 50 per cent of the voters cast ballots; in 1900, 73 per cent; in 1908, 66 per cent; in 1912, 62 per cent, and in 1920, less than 50 per cent. Native born American citizens appear to be among the worst offenders, the census showing 21,000,000 more native born voters than the total presidential vote.

The first effective effort to form a national organization for the purpose of rallying the stay-at-home vote to the polls in a presidential election has been undertaken by Simon Michelet, Washington attorney, political writer and statistician. Campaigns of the kind have been started in individual states and communities by political, civic and business organizations. The latest del-o, however, seeks to interest men and women of all political faiths in a nation wide move. It lays stress on the fact that getting out to vote is actually a public duty.

Legend Starts In Eclipse Of Moon

Like all extraordinary phenomena the recent total eclipse of the moon struck the imagination of the Siamese people and gave rise to a curious legend. There exists, they say, an evil spirit, Phra Rahu, who is jealous of the splendor of his brother, the sun, and his sister, the moon, and who, therefore, changes himself into an enormous black dragon and tries to devour those who give light to the world.

The human beings who see that they are in danger of losing the sources of their life must intervene and come to the aid of the stars in their simple way. They must try to frighten the black monster and to tear its shining prey away from it. For this reason there was a terrific noise in the streets of Bangkok as long as the eclipse lasted: kitchen utensils, gongs, shouts, all sorts of musical instruments, broken glass and

Q. How long have boxers used boxing gloves? A. T. D.

A. It has been supposed that the first glove contest was the battle between John L. Sullivan and James J. Corbett for the heavyweight championship in 1892. This was the first big glove contest in America. There is a record of a boxing bout in France between two English boxers in 1818 which mentions the fact that both men wore huge padded gloves.

F. T. M.
A. In 1918, the population of the islands reached 10,350,730 of whom 9,463,731 were classed as Christians and 886,999 as non-Christians.

Artist Ends Summer Visit In Appleton

George E. Hurt, English violinist, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holbrook, 520 College-ave, leaves Thursday evening for Ashville, N. C., to take charge of the instrumental music in the public schools of that city. Mr. Hurt has composed four songs and two orchestral pieces while in Appleton, two of which, "A Cradle Song," and "Russian Reverie" have been played in recitals in Appleton and Neenah during the summer. Mr. Hurt gave three recitals in the Arens art colony at Idlewild, last week.

PARTIES

Town girls of the Delta Gamma sorority of Lawrence college entertained at a 6 o'clock dinner Wednesday evening at the As You Like It Tea Room. The girls were Dorothy Lymer, Helen Hentest, Margaret O'Leary, Alice Lyons, Rose Ryan and Ellen Kinsman.

KAUKAUNA SCHOOLS
WILL OPEN SEPT. 2
FOR FALL SESSION

Teachers Discharged By School Board Will Present Selves
At School

Kaukauna—The city public schools will open for the fall term on Tuesday, Sept. 2. Superintendent J. F. Cavanaugh has announced. There will be only a few changes in the personnel of the teaching corps in the various schools. Only eight new teachers will take their places in high school. Park and Nicolet schools.

The first few days of school promise interesting developments when Mrs. A. Borklund and Mrs. D. J. Klotz present themselves ready for work at the opening of the term. Both teachers were automatically eliminated from public school teaching this year when the school board decided that no more married female teachers would be hired.

Blank contracts, however, had been circulated among the teachers previous to the action of the board and the women contend they have a binding contract with the board since they returned their agreements properly signed.

Another teacher has been added to the high school staff to take care of the natural increase in high school attendance. Believing there were not enough male teachers in the school the board engaged Herbert Ludwig to teach physics and social science. Olin G. Dryer has been appointed principal to succeed W. F. Waterpool and William Smith of Appleton has been engaged in Mr. Dryer's place. Mr. Smith will act as athletic coach and will teach civics and science. The only other change in the high school staff will be in the English department. Miss Ruth Nemachek of Appleton, has been engaged in place of Miss Almada Johnson, who has taken a position in Marinette.

In the junior high school Clara Klosterman of Shawano will take the place of Miss Roberta Corcoran. There will be no new teachers in Park school although Miss Onita Kuder, who taught in Nicolet school, has asked to be transferred to the north side school.

The teachers for in Nicolet school, however, will be considerably changed. Miss Adeline Basing of Waupun, will take Miss Kuder's place as head of the sixth grade. Miss Florence Kelupa of Princeton, will take the fourth grade, taught last year by Mrs. Klotz, and Miss Lois Chambers of Berlin, will take Mrs. Borklund's position as teacher of the third grade. Miss MacIntyre of Green Bay will be kindergarten teacher to replace Miss Thelma Durkee. Florence Klotz also has resigned as supervisor of music in all the schools. Her position will be taken by Miss Helse of Seymour.

LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours. Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenru, the sure conquerer of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment. Allenru has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitious and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenru, who for many years suffered the tortments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenru decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. This New Treatment
Never Fails to End Piles

Many sufferers from Piles or Hemorrhoids have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was nothing in the world to help them.

To these people we say, "Go to your druggist and get an original box of MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES." One of these inserted into the rectum according to directions will be found to give immediate relief. They reach the source of the trouble and by their soothing, healing, antiseptic action first allays the pain and soreness and then by direct contact with the ulcers and piles cause them to heal up and disappear forever.

ORGANIZE WISCONSIN BOOSTER CLUB HERE TODAY

BADGER LEADERS WORK OUT PLANS TO MAKE STATE GROW

Three Hundred Prominent Men Here to Complete Organization

Organization of the Greater Wisconsin association, to include commercial clubs, farmer societies, social service organizations and all others interested in the growth of Wisconsin, is being effected at a meeting of between two and three hundred representative men and women from leading Wisconsin cities here today. The session is being held in the Conway hotel. Luncheon shortly after 12 o'clock started the meeting.

STARTED IN APPLETON

Appleton Chamber of Commerce was one of the first organizations in the state to advocate a statewide organization. The idea was picked up by other organizations and recently a meeting was held in Milwaukee to outline plans for the larger gathering that is being held here today. Appleton men have had a large part in framing the preliminary plans and in determining the policies which probably will be adopted this afternoon.

Among the principal speakers at today's meeting are E. L. Phillips, former governor of Wisconsin and now president of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce, and Burt Williams, formerly United States revenue collector for the eastern district of Wisconsin. Both men have devoted a great deal of time to the preliminary work of organization and are presenting the purposes of the state association to the men gathered here.

Election of directors is included in the business for the afternoon. Directors will meet immediately after the general session to elect officers.

It is possible that election of a secretary will be deferred until the newly elected directors have had an opportunity to look over the field.

Ice Water And Cigarette First Request Of World Flier

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Correspondent

London—An American army airplane with the figure "2" painted on it comes roaring from the south, circles two or three times around the great Croydon Aerodrome, and then settles gently on the ground.

A few minutes later two other American airplanes land on this British field.

They have made history. Four hundred and three years ago a Portuguese named Magellan, in command of a fleet of Spanish ships, made similar history. The little vessels of wood and equipped with a few sails, were the first to circumnavigate the globe. And this tiny fleet of three airplanes, led by Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, has repeated part of that performance.

With pieces of stick and yards of linen, some steel and some aluminum, propelled by powerful engines, these daring latter-day Magellans had gone three-quarters around the globe when they landed in London.

And what do you reckon was the first thing Lieutenant Smith did when his machine stopped? He ducked his head out of the cockpit, jammed a cigaret into his young face and enjoyed a smoke.

Perhaps some day an imaginative historian will attribute to Smith some very fancy words as he stepped out of his machine onto British soil. Let an imaginative chronicler tell what he really said:

"What, whisky and soda?" asked one of the attaches of the aerodrome as a matter of course.

"No, pard. I said I wanted a drink. A long drink. A cold drink. Water with ice in it."

And that was that. And it was said with such fervor that Frederick Sterling, first secretary of the American embassy who was deputizing for American Ambassador Kellogg, forgot his speech of welcome—if indeed he had one. All he did was to shake Smith's hand and say—"Howdy!"

Came a solemn moment when the united army of British reporters corralled Lieutenant Smith, took him off to the British Customs Bureau, away from the autograph-hunting crowd, and began firing questions at him concerning the trip.

"The worst part of it all was in Northern Alaska," said Smith. "There we encountered the woolies—winds that blow 70 miles an hour and then suddenly stop and then just as suddenly begin again—icy cold, whipping sleet and snow into your face."

"Pardon," says a polite Briton, "you say these winds are called the woolies?"

"No. Woolies. But they give you the woolies."

"What's that?" asked the Briton blankly.

Enters the woman reporter. She beams brightly at Lieutenant Smith and pops the great question—"What is the first thing you are going to do when you land in New York?"

LEUTENANT LOWELL SMITH AND MRS. MACLAREN.

Smith looks at her quickly for a moment and then draws—
"Prepare to hop off for San Diego."

There was a pathetic side to the London welcome to our fliers. Mrs. MacLaren, wife of Squadron Leader MacLaren of the British Air Force, who also started on a world flight congratulated Smith and his companions upon their success. She thanked them for some favors they had helped secure for her husband.

Then the anxious wife was revealed. She knew the terrific flight with the elements that our men had when they crossed the north Pacific. She knew her own husband was in those same regions at that very moment. And she sought comfort by asking our men whether they thought MacLaren was in much danger.

Smith proved himself a gallant diplomat. He told the pretty young wife the truth about the dangers at this time of year and yet in such a way as not to add to her fears.

And that very evening the papers reported MacLaren was overdue and that Japanese war vessels were seeking traces of him in the desolate waters around the Kurile Islands.

FLOATS IN PARADE PORTRAY PROGRESS OF COUNTY FARMERS

Every Farm Activity Is Described in Farm Union Festival Procession

BY W. F. WINSEY
The Farm Union Festival in Pierce's park on Wednesday was a pronounced success. The weather, if ordered by the management, could not have been nearer the ideal. Not a hitch nor a slip marred the picnic from the start of the parade on Col. Leake-ave to the final celebration in the park. Fully 10,000 people had a good time and went home feeling the better for the outing.

The festival opened at 11 o'clock with a mammoth parade, nearly two miles long, that started in the vicinity of the college and broke ranks west of Cherry-st. From that point, the floats and marching men and women proceeded to the grounds where the floats were parked for closer inspection and the people enjoyed basket dinners at the noon hour.

28 FLOATS IN PARADE
The 120th Artillery band led the parade, followed by 28 floats, and these in turn were followed by the membership of each of the farm organizations represented at the festival. Each of the floats was educational in character. The rear of the line was closed by the Seymour band.

Some of the floats may be named and briefly described as follows:

Apple Creek Shipping Association float, loaded with bundles of oats, corn, rye, alfalfa, and show flowers and carrying several sheep.

The Wisconsin Cheese producers Federation float loaded with packages of Molo-Cream Cheese.

The Kaukauna Shipping Association float consisting of a truck carrying a teeter, on one end of which was a member and the other a non-member and both represented as profiting by the work of the association.

The Outagamie County Experiment Association float, decorated with sheaves of oats, wheat and alfalfa.

Guernsey Breeders Association float contained four calves fenced in with bundles of oats. In the middle of the float was a churn and a boy and girl carrying milk pails.

The Center Valley Cooperative Association had one float representing old days and another representing modern times on the farms.

The Dale-Hortonville Cow Testing unit consisted of the funeral procession of the scrub bull, on foot. In advance was a musician playing appropriate music. Then came the presheer followed by the bier supported by four men, and lastly the mourners.

The Holstein Breeders' association float, decorated with corn stalks and alfalfa carried a purebred Holstein cow in a modern stanchion near which there was a boy and a girl who represented improved farm homes.

The Common Sense Equity float illustrated with two groups of men the changes that have taken place in the interval between 1915 and 1924.

South Greenville Juvenile Grange float, was fenced with hunting and carried the membership of the grange.

One South Greenville Grange float, decorated in white with bunches of alfalfa here and there, carried a mammoth milk bottle and children and a banner inscribed, "We drink milk."

Another South Greenville Grange

Appleton Coated Paper company is building a new warehouse, 43 by 36 feet in size. It is three stories high and is being constructed of brick and concrete and replaces its former frame warehouse which has been dismantled. The foundation is well under way.

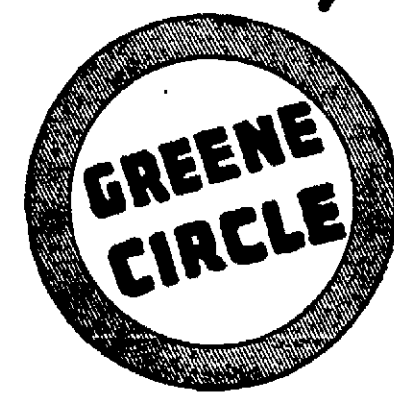

float decorated in white carried four generations of grange members in one family. Mrs. Christ Kaphingest, Mrs. John Pingle, daughter, Mrs. August Julius, daughter of Mrs. Pingle, and Kenneth Julius.

The North Cleere local unit represented a man who had lost his farm as a result of buying worthless stock and was keeping mum. It also represented another man who had lost $2 in a farm cooperative association. The latter was clothed in a barrel and making a noise.

AUTOISTS WARNED TO WATCH LIGHTS

Police Insist That Automobiles Must Be Lighted While Parked

Chief George T. Prim of the Appleton police department has renewed his warning that all automobiles must be sufficiently lighted when on the streets at night.

Not only are automobiles required to have both headlights and the tail lamp lighted when in operation, but automobile lights should also be burning when the car is left parked on a street. Failure to observe this precaution has resulted in several accidents and one death this year.

According to a city ordinance, cars parked on streets at night, must have one headlight and one lamp in the rear lighted. A ruling of the state highway commission that cars parked within 500 feet from an arc light require no lighting of automobile lamps, will be ignored in Appleton, since attorneys have doubted the validity of this rule.

50,000 KIDS WILL ATTEND STATE FAIR

State Fair Park, Milwaukee—The state fair is preparing for 50,000 children as guests on opening day, August 23rd, this year. Last year the number was about 40,000, but each year for the past five years has shown a marked increase. On this day the children are admitted free and a special program is offered for their benefit.

This year the state department of the American Legion and the Wisconsin Press association will have charge of the program and youngsters will have an opportunity of developing their patriotic ardor, gain more knowledge of the Fourth Estate and have a good time as well. The fair itself has arranged for several judging events for the benefit of the small guests. Among them are the judging of Shetland ponies and boys' and girls' entries of young dairy cattle and other domestic animals.

In former years the children have sustained disappointments in the amusement section, the traveling concerns furnishing riding devices having on several occasions failed to arrive in Milwaukee on opening day. All rides and amusements this year are already on the ground and being operated daily up to the fair. There can be no delays in "setting up" this year and the amusement park section will be ready to function at opening time on Monday, August 25th.

LIVELY ADVENTURES ATTEND TRAVELS OF CANYON SURVEYORS

Geographical Survey Party
Confronted by Many Obstacles in Colorado

By Associated Press
Washington — Twenty-foot waves 50-foot boulders and 60-foot lava pinnacles rising sheer out of the channel, radio troubles and a labor strike, were some of the trials and tribulations which recently mapped the last stretch of the Canyon of the Colorado. In his report on the trip, C. H. Birdseye, who headed the expedition, recorded that in the 450-mile journey encounters with cataracts which had struck fear into the hearts of other hardy adventurers and sightseers became daily incidents.

The stretch of the Colorado River, from Lees Ferry, Arizona, to Needles, California, was the last that had not been accurately surveyed for mapping, and the purpose of the hazardous expedition was to locate possible dam sites for flood prevention, power developments and irrigation. It was this party that was reported lost early last October, when a half wrecked boat was discovered that was thought to have belonged to them. However, the ten men accomplished the feat with one broken rib the only casualty, and with the loss of only a small canoe.

The first task encountered by the engineers was that of trucking a 16-foot boat down a narrow trail blasted in the side wall of the Canyon, near Lees Ferry. This boat was taken by auto 140 miles, from Flagstaff, Arizona, the nearest railroad station.

The four boats used were eighteen footers, decked over at both ends with water tight hatches and metal compartments for buoyancy and for keeping instruments and supplies dry. The lost canoe was a light collapsible canvas craft, which was so completely demolished in its mishap that only the oars, oarlocks and skin were recovered.

One of the interesting features of the trip was the comparative ease with which radio messages were picked up, in the bottom of the canyon, even sometimes 1,000 feet below the rim. The death of President Harding was heard of within an hour after the event.

As the cockpits in the boat were large enough only to accommodate the oarsman, the two passengers each was forced to carry had to lie down on the decking, holding on for life to the lines, and being continually drenched by spray and waves. "The waves were mountainous," Mr. Birdseye reported, "and to some of us our first ride of this kind was a genuine thriller. But we afterward became so used to riding rough water and getting soaked that we vied with one another in making the plunge with a lighted pipe or cigarette without losing the light."

Upsets were not unusual. At one time one of the men was thrown out of his boat, turning a complete somersault, and going down out of sight. But he soon reappeared, caught the boat which had not turned over, climbed aboard and weathered the rapids. Another boat was tossed high in the air in another rapids, and when it came down, bottom-side up the men were thrown out between it and the rocky banks, one narrowly escaping being crushed.

R. W. Burchard, the topographic engineer, who had already made surveys of the river lower down, fractured a rib while scrambling over slippery rocks to a station. The injury was painful, but he insisted on being allowed to continue the work, and actually did so for 12 days, until the job was completed and he had connected his two surveys.

A 21-foot rise of the river followed several heavy rain storms, and kept the party scrambling all one night to safeguard the boats, move camp and keep supplies dry. The river was full of drift wood, including great tree trunks which at times thrown completely out of the water. The waves were estimated as 20 feet high, and their spray dashed as high again.

The party took to the water August 1, at Lees Ferry, and arrived at the end of their water trail October 19, a little more than two months and a half for the 450-mile trip, of which only 16 days were not given to actual traveling.

Fond du Lac—The protest of the Fond du Lac chapter of the Wisconsin Reserve Officers' association against Gov. Blaine's refusal to permit Wisconsin officials to cooperate in National Defense day has resulted in action by the state organization according to a letter from Maj. Robert Boardman, president.

Maj. Boardman declared Wednesday that the reserve officers feel that the governor "has taken an ill-advised attitude" toward Defense day, and that his action is "unwarranted and unworthy of his office as chief executive of the state."

"We are confident," says his letter, "that his attitude is not a true reflection of the representative feeling of the state. We shall do all in our power to make known in our communities the true significance of National Defense day and the position we take in reference thereto."

MUSICAL LEADER SAYS JAZZ RUINS MORALS OF YOUTH

Reversion to Jungle Rhythm
'Cannot Help But Be Demoralizing, She Says

Los Angeles.—Is the wild cacophony of the orchestra a war whoop inciting modern young city savages to anti-social and criminal ventures?

Mrs. Anne Faulkner Oberndorfer, national music chairman of the General Federation of the Women's Clubs, brands it just that in an effort to marshal American women against further spread of the world's most virulent tonal epidemic.

"Boys and girls are going wrong in alarming numbers," says Mrs. Oberndorfer, "because they get drunk on jazz—quite as powerful an intoxicant as alcohol."

"Some declare this provocative rhythm a mere symptom of our speedy, reckless age, but I believe it is also a decided cause, leading to much delinquency."

IT'S SAVAGE

"We have long glibly quoted the mild phrase 'music bath power' to soothe the savage beast," but we don't seem to have comprehended the powerful physical effect of musical vibration; its power to excite as well as to allay the savage breast which throbs under the skin of civilization.

"A vibratory force that can rock bridges, break window glass, set inertia in motion, may play havoc with the sensitive human structure. Its effect depends upon the rhythm, upon stimulus of vague and varying race memories."

"When the American Indian wanted to awaken his bestiality to fever pitch, he first subjected himself to the monotonous tom-tom of primitive music. The same with the jungle black. They knew its savage potency."

"In some sections of our southern states women for years locked their doors and window when the negroes of the swamps began chanting their 'blues.'"

"Jazz is the modern echo of ominous incantation—the pound, pound, pound that fires leaping plumes and allays the safety inhibitions slowly built up for social deportment from time immemorial."

"It is disorder, anarchy, the churning of primitives impulse, bound to stir the jungle beast, more or less, whether its devotees recognize it or not. The more thoroughly disciplined, the adult, may be able to ward off its promptings; but the immature, the adolescent, cannot withstand its call."

"Shaken off their balance by long and reiterated sessions of tom-tomery, often night after night in thousands of dance places and as many thousands of homes, youngsters are indelibly impelled toward criminal recklessness."

"Publishers of popular songs not alone stress the jungle rhythm but also permit the use of the most suggestive and perverse words and ideas.

"Unless we expect our young folk to revert to a sort of sophisticated Woodooism, we must encourage the return of law and order, form and balance in music.

"We must make good music popular and popular music good."

SHINE UP SCHOOLS FOR OPENING FALL SESSION SEPT. 2

Public and Lutheran Schools Start on Tuesday After Labor Day

Sept. 2 looms big in the eyes of the children of Appleton, for on that day the city schools will open for the fall term. While mothers are making clothes and getting the children ready for school, the buildings are being redecorated and renovated so that everything will be in readiness for the first day.

In Appleton high school, the board of education has painted and redecorated many of the rooms and has redecorated the auditorium, remodeled the kitchen, and new equipment in the office.

The new bubble has been installed in the first ward school, the basement floor has been concreted and new concrete steps have been built. Several classrooms have been plastered and redecorated.

General redecorating and renovating has been going on in the second district schools. The work includes painting, putting in new steps and making other necessary repairs. The third ward and Washington schools have been undergoing the same treatment, and a new boiler has been installed in the furnace room of Washington school.

The fourth district schools, have been thoroughly cleaned and renovated inside and out and the Richmond school has been painted white. New drinking devices have been installed in the Richmond school.

Appleton vocational school, like the rest, has been going over thoroughly and some new equipment has been installed. The vocational school also will open on Sept. 2. The only new addition to the faculty will be Herb Heilig, who is to take the place of W. S. Ford as director while Mr. Ford has a year's leave of absence.

Zion school will open on Sept. 2 and in preparation the building has been thoroughly cleaned and gone over, and necessary repairs are being made. Two new teachers have been engaged. They are Miss Clara Theimer of Hebron, Neb., who is to teach the first and second grades, and Miss Eva Mollenbruch, also of Hebron, who will teach the third and fourth grades.

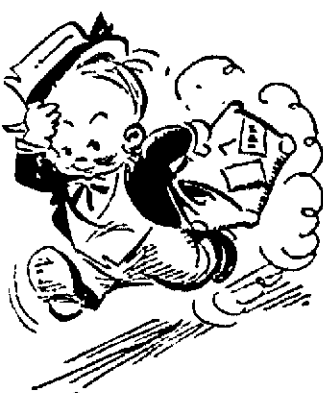

St. Paul school will open on Sept. 2 also. The school has been redecorated and one new teacher, Miss Dettman, has been engaged. She will teach the third and fourth grades.

St. Joseph, St. Mary and Sacred Heart schools, have not announced the date of their opening, but they have prepared the buildings for the fall session. New desks have been installed in St. Joseph school and the interior has been varnished and cleaned.

FIREWORKS DISPLAY AT NIGHT FAIR AT DEPERE

The final shipment of bombs, rockets and special explosives, to be used in the gorgeous and wonderful Thearle-Duffield fireworks displays at the 1924 Northeastern Wisconsin fair at De Pere Aug. 25 to 29 has just arrived. The shipment was by express and it was carefully guarded every mile of the route from Roby, Indiana, factory of Thearle-Duffield, as fireworks are not yet classified as play toys for children.

Giant rockets of ten and twelve feet in length, bombs half the size of a man, and mortars more than four feet high were included in the consignment. Fair officials were amazed at the amount of fireworks to be used in the nightly displays and they admitted that Thearle-Duffield have made good their statement that their 1924 displays would be the largest and biggest ever fired by any fireworks concern.

Nightly features form the principal basis of the 1924 program and such pyrotechnic displays as "The Bombardment of Fort Mifflin," "The Head-on Collision," "The Spirit of Childhood," "Barney Google and Spark Plug," "Back from Spirit Land," a giant American flag and other thrillers will be served.

Fond Du Lac Plans To Cop Sunday Game At Appleton's Cost

Cardinals Derive Comfort from Excellent Showing Made in Contest with League Leading Pails.

Fond du Lac—Fond du Lac is going to make an effort to get out of the bottom position of the Wisconsin State League Sunday when the Cardinals play Appleton at Ruppert Athletic field. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock and effort is being made to have a big crowd turn out.

The Cardinals lost to Menasha Sunday, but by a lone point. And it must also be considered that Menasha is the best team in the league, winning all of its games, and holding the lead in the circuit.

Because the Cardinals have lost all of their games of the new season does not necessarily brand them as a poor team. The team has some real material in it and should put up a spirited battle against the Papermakers.

Appleton is in perfect condition, beating Green Bay Sunday by a score of 3 to 1. Appleton got eight hits off Wolynski. Following are the probable lineups for Sunday.

Appleton—Bergner, 3b; M. Lamars, 2b; R. Smith, rf; Sylvester, lf; T. Lamars, ss; W. Weisgerber, 1b; E. Weisgerber, cf; Stump, c; Stack, p; L. Smith.

Fond du Lac—Faris, 1b; Steen, cf; Zinke, ss; Durain, 3b; Meizer, rf; Klevon, c; Bohman, 2b; Spier, lf; Jones, p.

Last Inning Rally Brings Pressmen to Within Two Tallies of Winners

By staging a ninth inning rally in their contest with the Post-Crescents Wednesday evening, the Meyer Pressmen nearly turned a 9 to 7 defeat into a victory, coupling four runs in the last of the final stanza.

The Post-Crescents had piled up five tallies in the fourth by clouting Colvin heavily, but Reeves went in after that and held the winners to a few scattered hits. The game was well played from start to finish and most of the runs on both sides were scored off clean hits.

Wagner pitched a fine game for the Post-Crescents, outlasting E. Colvin and R. Colvin. Bender was at the receiving end for the winners, and Bender for the Meyermen.

The score by innings:
Post-Crescents 0 2 0 0 1 0 0 1—9
Meyer Press 0 1 0 1 0 0 0 1—7

Pails Feel Financial TWINGE; APPEAL TO FANS

Menasha—Cutting the fact that the Menasha-Neehan club of the Wisconsin State League is in sore financial straits as a result of unfavorable weather the twin city management has issued an appeal to fans of Neehan for better support. A mass meeting is to be held Tuesday night at which club affairs will be discussed and plans made for a big booster game in the near future. It is expected the Nash team of Kenosha will come here for the event.

PHILLIES HAVE CHANGE TO REACH SIXTH PLACE

It begins to appear that the Phillies, chronic tailenders, will land in more serene position this season. In fact, they stand a good chance to get as high as sixth, something unusual for the Quaker town gang. Fletcher has his men playing the best brand of pastime they have exhibited in quite some time.

DETROIT LOSES MOST GAMES BY SINGLE RUN

Detroit has perhaps dropped more games by one run this season than any other club in the league. Time and again the Tigers have quit the lead on the short end of a lone count decision. Many times they have won victory go the other way in the ninth and in overtime innings. Had the club been able to get just an even walk in the close contests it would be holding quite a commanding lead in the American procession.

Cupid has added another victim to a list on the Neehan-Menasha State League club. Walter Warden, star pitcher of the Pails, better known as "Piggy" Warden, was married at Menasha, Mich., Tuesday. They returned to Neehan Wednesday evening where wedding dinner and reception took place at the home of E. M. McDowell, the bride's sister.

STATE VARSITY EXPECTS RECORD GRID ATTENDANCE

University Begins Distribution of Application Blanks for Coming Season

Madison—Application blanks for football tickets will be mailed Friday to every alumnus and former student of the University of Wisconsin whose name is on the alumni or university list, approximately 20,000 of them. At the same time application blanks for the general public have been provided for all who desire them.

The big concrete stadium at Camp Randall, constructed entirely from the receipts of the football games, and seating approximately 33,000, has been divided to give everyone an equal opportunity to procure an excellent seat merely by following the regulations adapted by the athletic council. After reserving a small section in the center of the west stand for the regents, board of visitors, squad, "W" men and staff, the south half of the stand will be reserved exclusively for alumni and former students, the upper half going to the members of the Alumni association and the lower portion to the unorganized alumni. Extending north from the 50-yard line will be the male student cheering section and the student or all university section.

Under a conference agreement the partisans of the visiting team are provided with seats in one block, extending south from the 50-yard line in the East Stand, while the general public will be given the seats in the East and North stands, extending from the 50-yard line.

Although the applications are now available, none should be returned before Sept. 1. To give everyone the same opportunity to procure the 50-yard line seats applications will be filed in the order in which they are received on and after Sept. 1, but any prior to that date will be filed as of Sept. 5.

With the biggest and best schedule in the history of the game at Wisconsin and with prospects for an excellent team it is anticipated that thousands of applications will be received on Sept. 1 and that every available ticket for the big games will be sold before the first game is actually played.

Anyone who has failed to receive application blanks and desires to attend University of Wisconsin games may secure the proper forms by applying at the Post-Crescent offices, where a limited number is available.

"BIG BILL" WILL SEEK FIFTH CHAMPIONSHIP

"Big Bill" Tilden, national tennis champion, will seek his fifth consecutive crown this summer. Tilden first won the American honors in 1920. He has held them thus far, winning with comparative ease in 1921, 1922, 1923. It ranks as a modern record for the classic.

San Francisco—Another Helen Willis. That's what they are calling little Winifred Suhr of this city who recently won the singles championship of the Pacific northwest. She is barely 18, yet she has won over a number of ranking players of this section. Her partner in doubles, Betty Thorne, is another young star of great promise. The two recently won the British Columbia doubles title.

Test Cost Benny Purse But Proved His Ability

Lightweight Champion Loses $100,000 by Winning from Pal Moran, But He Considers It Worth While.

BY BENNY LEONARD
Lightweight Champion of the World
Written Especially for the Post-Crescent.

BENNY LEONARD

It cost me more than $100,000 to win from Pal Moran, New Orleans lightweight, in Cleveland the other night.

And it was worth it!

I cracked my left thumb in the third round. As a result of the injury I will not be able to fight Mickey Walker, welterweight champion in New York, this month. I may not be able to fight him before next spring.

The Walker fight would have brought me more than $100,000. I got less than $12,000 for winning from Moran.

I can hear the critics saying, "How foolish of Leonard to run the risk of losing the Walker match just to pick up a few thousands by meeting a setup. He must have an awful greed for gold."

NEEDED A "TEST FIGHT"
Well, I'm a Jewish boy and I don't exactly cringe at the sight of money. But I didn't take on Moran with the idea of adding to my bank roll. I would have boxed him, or any other fairly good lightweight for that matter, for nothing.

I needed a fight, a good spirited fight that would put me on edge for Walker. I had been out of the ring for nearly a year. I didn't know how good I was, and I did know that Walker was tough. I don't mind admitting now that I had some misgivings.

I remembered my experience against Charley White in 1920, out in Michigan. I hadn't fought in months. I came up from the coast to take on the Chicago left hooker. I thought I was in fair shape. I wasn't. White knocked me through the ropes. A better man would have knocked me out.

That was a lesson to me. I resolved I would never take on a tough customer again without engaging in one or two preliminary fights first. I knew I couldn't run the same risk against Walker that I had against White. Walker carries too many guns, was heavier, and besides, I wanted to win his title.

NOW HE'S CERTAIN
I had all this in mind when I agreed to battle Moran in Cleveland, and that's why I refused to call the match off. I think it was worth how I figure that it was worth

RIVERVIEW GOLF STAR SURVIVES IN KENOSHA MEET

Ken Dickinson Paired with Gordon Guilbert in Championship Match

Kenosha—E. P. Allis of Milwaukee successfully defended his title as Wisconsin state golf champion in the first round of state tournament match play Wednesday morning, when he defeated F. W. Waller, the champion of the Blue Mound club by a score of 4 up and 2 to play. Allis played an uphill game, as he was 1 down to Waller at the turn, but on the course Walter went bad and Allis had him dormie on the sixteenth tee. He won the hole and the match.

Early Thursday morning E. P. Allis III, multi crowned star of Badger amateurs was to step out on the first tee and drive off with Billy Sixty, this year's medalist and runner-up for the title. It will be a match worth going a long way to see. Sixty was deprived of a chance to wear the coveted dindem last summer when Allis put him out of the running on the beautiful Blue Mound links. This year Sixty is out for blood. He started off by capturing the low medal card and despite his close shave on Wednesday, appears to be the favorite. Sixty has the knack, recently at least, of cracking his iron shots down on the pin and holding out for birdies. He grabbed a pair of deuces that saved his hide in his battle with Fons and while his youthful companion was plugging away faithfully at his regular gate Sixty was either taking sixes or twos.

CHAMPIONSHIP PAIRINGS

Billy Sixty vs. Ned Allis.
Moe Frost vs. R. P. Cavanaugh.
W. D. Martin vs. H. W. Gardner.

Waller, Blue Mound, 4 up 2 to play; John B. Stevens, Delavan, defeated Emil Nemever, La Crosse, 3 up 2 to play; W. A. Bell, Kenosha, defeated Morgan Manchester, Madison, 2 up 1 to play; Moe Frost, Kenosha, defeated H. S. Hadfield, Blue Mound, 6 up 5 to play; Francis Hackett, Kenosha, defeated Eddie Hayden, Michiwaukee, 1 up R. P. Cavanaugh, Kenosha, defeated Al Fons, Bay View, 6 up 5 to play; W. D. Martin, Jr., Kenosha, defeated Harry Worth, Michiwaukee, 3 up 1 to play; Everett Litemore, Milwaukee, defeated D. O. Head, Jr., Kenosha, 7 up 5 to play; E. C. Beck, Sheboygan, defeated P. M. Davis, Blue Mound, 5 up 3 to play; H. W. Gardner, Kenosha, defeated T. A. Schroeder, Michiwaukee, 9 up 7 to play; Gordon Guilbert, Racine, defeated Everett Litemore, Milwaukee, 9 up 8 to play; Eugene C. Smith, Kenosha, defeated D. A. Matteson, Delavan, 1 up; K. L. Dickinson, Appleton, defeated W. W. Kelly, Racine, 1 up; John Marshall, Maple Bluff, defeated John Reid, Jr., Kenosha, 1 up.

SECOND ROUND—CHAMPIONSHIP

Sixty defeated Fons, 3 and 1.
Allis defeated Stevens, 5 and 3.
Frost defeated Bell, 5 and 4.
Cavanaugh defeated Hackett, 5 and 4.
Martin defeated Walter Lindsay, 6 and 5.
Gardner defeated Beck, 1 up.
Guilbert defeated Smith, 4 and 2.
Dickinson defeated Marshall, 5 and 4.

MICHIGAN GRIDDERS FACE HARD SCHEDULE

University of Michigan football team will play six Western Conference eleven this fall. They are: Ohio State, Iowa, Minnesota, Northwestern, Wisconsin and Illinois. Iowa, Wisconsin and Northwestern will be played at Ann Arbor. It is one of the hardest linkings the Wolverines have been handed in some seasons.

CUYLER AND COOPER HELP PIRATES PLAY GOOD BALL

Pittsburg has been playing pennant-winning ball for the past month or so. From a second division berth the club has pulled up to a place behind the Giants. From present indications McKee's lead appears to be the New Yorkers' most feared opponents. Much of the Pittsburg success of late has been due to the hitting of Hazen Cuyler and the hurling of Wilbur Cooper. The latter seems to have struck his real pitching stride again.

DETROIT GOLFER HANGS UP 2 TITLES IN MONTH

James D. Standish Jr. of Detroit hung up a new record by winning the Michigan amateur golf championship recently. It was his fourth triumph. He also capped the Detroit district tournament, thus annexing two crowns in less than a month's time.

that weighed up to 25 pounds with a light casting rod weighing but 6 1/2 ounces and a light 15 pound test line; but they certainly did punish the rod and it took careful handling to land them. There is no necessity, however, of spilling good bass tackle when one can purchase a good musky rod for a small sum.

Yanks Climb Higher When St. Louis Club Drops Two, 1-0, 2-1

Pirates Gain on League Leading Giants by Copping 4 to 2 Decision in Contest at Pittsburg.

Within 24 hours the pennant chances of the St. Louis Browns have faded from a bright rose tinge to an olive drab. When Sisler's men invaded the Yankee's home Wednesday they were but four games behind the second-place New Yorkers. Thursday they are six contests to leeward of the world champions, who once more are perched on the top branch of Ban Johnson's tree, seven points ahead of the Tigers.

The Browns lost two heart breaking games to the Yanks by scores of 1 to 0 and 2 to 1. As the results indicate both battles were decided by a single combat between the rival moundmen. After cinching the curtain raiser by 8 to 4 and establishing a six-run lead in the second, Detroit collapsed at the feet of the Athletics in the fifth inning the White Elephants chasing seven runs over the pan in that frame and winning out by 5 to 7 in the eleventh.

Cleveland held Washington safe at all stages while his fellow Indians hammered out a 5 to 1 victory. Cleveland's win, coupled with Chicago's double defeat at the hands of Boston enabled the Tribe to pass the White Sox into fifth place.

Practically hit-proof pitching was the principal factor in Boston's twoply killing of Chicago. In the opener Ehmeke shut out the White Sox with two hits and Fullerton and Quinn did almost as well in the final. Scores were 6 to 0 and 4 to 1. Through their twin triumph the Red Sox climbed out of the cellar.

Six games instead of seven Thursday separates the Pirates from the league leading Giants in the National as a result of the former's 4 to 2 decision over the champions. Timely hitting and sharp fielding turned the trick for the home lads. The other six Heydler clubs enjoyed a holiday.

RIVERVIEW CROWN AT STAKE IN MEET

Championship Tournament of Local Club Will Be Started Saturday

Riverview Country club members will clash in the opening round of a match for the club championship on Saturday which is expected to bring out the best players of the organization. Regular 18-hole match play will be the rule, with all golfers eligible.

The entrants will be divided into three classes. All those whose handicap is 12 or under will be in class A; those having handicaps of 13 to 18 inclusive are in class B, while a handicap of 19 or more puts the entrant into class C.

Winners in each class will receive medals, and their names will be engraved on a shield which is to be hung in the clubhouse.

After the tourney is started one match must be played each succeeding week until the championship is decided.

New York—Pummy Anderson, former lightweight, the only man except Benny Leonard who knocked out Ever Hammer, died after an operation.

Baltimore—Mickey Pappas stopped Pat Mills in five rounds.

MRS. PORCUPINE AND THE ROLLER COASTER

Mrs. Prickles Porcupine came one day all dressed up in her Sunday best. "Hello, Mrs. Porcupine," called Nick. "How nice you look!"

"I should say so," remarked Nancy kindly. "Where in the world did you get such a becoming hat?"

"Why, I got it at the store," said Mrs. Porcupine modestly. "But really, I couldn't make up my mind whether to take it or not. Yellow never was becoming to me and these brown-eyed Susans on the hat make me look sawlow, I think."

"Oh, no, they don't," said Nancy. "They look lovely on your straw hat. Really they look exactly as though they were growing right out of a flower pot."

"Well, I'm glad of that," said Mrs. Porcupine, in a relieved voice. "I didn't want to come until I got my new hat. I just got it this morning." At that, Mister Zip said how becoming it was. "I do hope she saved enough money to spend." For Mister Zip liked to have people spend money in Happy Go Lucky Park. The more they spent the quicker he would make his fortune.

"Show Mrs. Porcupine around, Nancy," he said out loud. "And see that she has a good time."

"What's that thing?" asked Mrs. Porcupine when they came to the roller coaster.

"That's the roller coaster," said Nancy. "You pay 10 cents and get into one of these little cars and it takes you for a lovely ride on a track."

"I think I'll take a ticket," said the porcupine lady, fidgeting around in her pocketbook for a dime.

Nancy got her a ticket and put her into one of the cars and away went Mrs. Porcupine all aflutter with excitement.

She didn't notice the sign which said "Hold your hats."

Indeed, when the little car began to shoot around curves and whirl through tunnels and dip into hollows, and leap over bumps, it was all she could do to hold herself in.

She grabbed the sides of the car with both hands and held on for dear life.

"My goodness! Mercy me!" she cried. "Oh, dear me!"

And suddenly off went her hat. "Help! Help!" she screamed as it disappeared over the edge of the roller coaster. And she was still screaming "help" when the little car brought her back to the starting place.

"Why, where is your hat?" cried Nancy.

"That's what I'd like to know!" declared Mrs. Porcupine tearfully. "It blew off."

"We'll go and look for it," said Nick. "It can't be far away."

"A hat!" cried Dossy Cow, who was eating grass over in a field. "No, I didn't see any hat. A bunch of straw and some brown-eyed Susans fell out of the sky and I ate it. That's all I saw."

"Oh, dear me!" wailed Mrs. Porcupine.

"I'll pay you for the hat," said Mister Zip kindly. "Don't cry."

"That was luck," said Mrs. Porcupine to herself on her way home. "I didn't like that hat and I couldn't take it back. Now I can buy a new one."

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

Well, dear, we got Syd over to his apartment yesterday, and last night I read him what that man told you about the coral god he sent you.

Syd told me that the Chinaman tried to tell him a long story when he bought it, explaining something of which he could not make head or tail. He told me to tell you that he hoped that he had not started you on the sill hunt for some impossible ideal masculine member of humanity, and I told him, dear, that you had already found an impossible masculine member of humanity. At that, he said he guessed everything was all right.

I was somewhat disappointed, dear heart, over your letter. I missed something from it. I wonder if it was because I am a little sensitive these days, that I am always looking for what is behind your words. Someway I felt some of the sincere spontaneity of you, some of the realness of you, was not in that letter. Darling, have I lost something by telling you that story? If I have, I shall wish I had never told it.

You see I am selfish, dear. I want to keep your love - now I know you're smiling at dear, intriguing, inscrutable smile of yours, that smile into which I read all my moods. Just now I am reading into it: "Jack, you want to eat your cake and have it too!"

I guess that's true, wife o' mine. We men are always naughty little boys, and it takes all your mother love to make us bearable, doesn't it? You know I love you, don't you? You know I've never loved any other woman but you - and here is the complex nature of man - I should never love any other woman but you even though I was untrue to you.

Some man told me the other day that a husband should never be frank with his wife; if he wanted to live happily he should never tell her the truth. If by telling you the truth, dear, I haven't gained more of your trust than I had before, if indeed I have lost some of it, I shall never be happy again.

You have made me very happy, Leslie - I don't know why I put that in the past tense. You are making me very happy. It's only I, myself - my own soul questionings, my own unworthiness - that makes me unhappy.

I'm sitting here at a table in the room where Syd is lying, and I'm wondering just what he would say if he could read this letter. For of course you have learned before this, Leslie dear, that Sydney Carton is a much stronger man than I. I can't conceive of him writing a letter to anyone like this one I am writing to you, and probably you can't conceive of him doing a thing that would, in time, make such a letter necessary to his peace of mind.

I'm never going to mention all this again, Leslie. I'm going to try and put it away in that place that you have called "my forgettery." I'm coming home to you within a week, and immediately you and I are going to set talk for that beautiful land-of-beginning-again.

When I see you I will tell you what Syd said about the little twin god.

I sent some flowers to Mrs. Atherton. Poor girl! I think if I were a woman I would mourn more for a husband I didn't love than one I did love. There's a paradox, Leslie, that's almost feminine!

Good night, dear heart. I close your eyes with kisses JACK.

Meat Important Item In Sane Diet To Fortify Against Anemic Blood

As a single item in the diet, meat is one of the most important—a fact which has been recognized since the beginning of time.

The daily menu is practically always built around meat as the main dish of the meal—for one reason, that the protein of meat is necessary in the diet—the other protein foods lacking that identical protein element—and second, because it has been proven that an exclusively vegetarian diet is likely to cause weakness and anemia, thereby reducing the power of resisting disease.

Since the taste and enjoyment of foods are indispensable to efficient digestion it is sound policy to serve and eat foods which taste good, so the housewife cannot be amiss in serving meat in some form at least once a day.

Aside from being one of the most appetizing and satisfying of foods, and that it is needed in the diet, there are several reasons why it should be used freely.

One reason is that meat is high in nutritive value. It contains relatively large quantities of protein in its most palatable, stimulating and digestible form. Besides liberal quantities of fat, for producing energy, heat and muscular power. Also vitamins, substances about which there is little known except that they are necessary for the normal growth and development, are present in meat in sufficient quantities for nutritional requirements.

For practical purposes, the different cuts of meat have about the same nutritive value. Difference in price of various cuts of the same grade express principally difference in ease of preparation, especially the amount of cooking required.

The real meal problem for the consumer, is simply one of wise buying and skillful preparation. A common weakness in the handling of the meat problem is that housewives have grown accustomed to using a very few cuts of kinds, those being the more expensive ones, mostly because it is easier to prepare them. It would be well for those who are interested in economy to give thought and time to the preparation of the less expensive cuts of meat, such as the hind quarter, and fore quarter cuts other than the ribs. These parts require longer cooking than the loin, and may be economically prepared by cooking in a kettle with a tight lid, over a very low fire. They are equally nutritious compared with the more tender, and higher priced cuts, and may be made into very palatable fishes.

This Model Is Easy For You To Copy

The sparseness of simplicity is illustrated by this flock of black and white checked wool with its tiny vest and collar and cuffs of white linen. Red bindings add to the interest and conform to the popular theory that every costume should have a touch of scarlet. This is a French model, but there is nothing about it that could not be copied by any dressmaker at a very trifling cost.

FASHION HINTS

HOW TO SELECT GOOD MEAT
Good quality is generally indicated by the thickness of lean meat and liberal depth of fat. The very best beef has a smooth uniform outside covering of clear white fat, and firm fine textured flesh of light red color, having a mixture of fat through the lean flesh.

Veal is pink and somewhat less firm than beef. Pork is dark pink, and the fat is less firm than that of express principally difference in ease and this fat is firmer than that of either beef or mutton. Pork should cut easily and have a layer of pure white fat. Mutton is a dull brick color, and lamb is light pink or grayish red, according to the age of the animal.

Meat should be firm to the touch and elastic, and should smell fresh. And, when buying meat, remember, there is less shrinkage in a good grade of meat in cooking than a cheaper grade. Paper in which meat is wrapped at the shop, should be removed when it reaches home and placed on a plate when putting it into the ice box. If the paper is left on, it absorbs much of the valuable juices, and the meat very often sticks to it.

The following recipes for the less expensive cuts of meat are worth your trying.

ROAST BEEF
Select for the medium size family a nice piece of chuck, weighing from three to five pounds. Wipe, place on rack in dripping pan, having the skin side down, rub over with salt, and dredge meat and pan with flour. Scour the surface quickly in a frying pan, so as to prevent escape of juices. Place in roast pan; add one cup hot water, basting with meat drippings if meat is tender lean. Bake every ten minutes and when meat is about half done, turn over and dredge with flour. Turn the skin side may be up, for the final browning. For a roast weighing five pounds, time required for roasting is one hour and twenty minutes. The pan should be adapted to the size of the roast to prevent flour and broth from burning. Beef to be well roasted should be started in a hot oven and the heat reduced after the outside has been well seared.

STUFFED VEAL POCKET
Select a shoulder piece of veal, weighing four or five pounds. Have a pocket made in center by removing bone. Stuff with a bread stuffing to which has been added two tablespoons fried bacon cut in small pieces. Mix one small onion and fry in bacon drippings until onions begin to brown (in roasting pan), and put in veal which has been stuffed and sewed. Brown well on top of the stove in the roasting pan. Place two or three strips of bacon or salt pork on top of veal and bake from two to three hours. The oven should be hot at first, then heat gradually lowered, basting frequently.

The jaws of human beings have dropped half an inch since the days of prehistoric man.

Hard Varnish Is Sanitary For Kitchen Floor

Sanitation is of utmost importance in the kitchen. And in the pursuit of sanitation beauty is found.

Varnished floors are clean floors, sanitary and healthful, and easy to keep clean. The kitchen floor is subjected daily to the footwear of the butcher, the baker and the grocer. Frequent cleaning is necessary, and the varnished floor yields easily to any proper cleaning process. Paint or varnish the woodwork, making sure that all the cracks are filled with putty after the first coat of paint has been applied.

Paint the stove with the special enamel paints and for the purpose. Cooking is always attended by moisture, which causes unprotected iron to rust.

Enamel the sink. Be sure that the surface is dry before applying the enamel. Three thin coats should be given it, allowing sufficient time between each coat for drying. Enamel around the water pipes and wherever you think any moisture may collect.

The ice-box should not be forgotten. Sandpaper the rough spots and apply a coat of enamel, thinned down. When the first coat is dry, apply a second and heavier coat. Then a third, if you would have the best results on the exterior of your ice-box. Of course varnish may be used in place of enamel to prevent damage due to sweating, if preferred.

Windows should be screened and the screens painted. Paint preserves the screening and saves it from early depreciation, aside from the neat appearance and cleanliness of paint.

If you have a linoleum-covered floor and it is worn in spots, scrub it with soda water, and when thoroughly dry, give it a thin coat of ground color paint. Then paint it with a dark oak color, and when this is dry varnish it all over.

Household Suggestions

LOTS OF ICE CREAM
Ice cream that is made of the pure ingredients should be served frequently during the summer, as it is a nourishing food as well as a dessert. A glass of ice cream has a caloric value equivalent to three eggs or a third of a pound of beef steak.

REMOVING COFFEE STAINS
Pour boiling water through coffee stains, but soak tea stains first in cold water.

PLUMS FOR CANNING
Plums for canning should be sweet, juicy and upbruised. They should not be too ripe.

GRASS STAINS
Remove grass stains by wetting the spot with water and sprinkling with equal parts of salt and dry tartaric acid. Lay it in the sun, light to dry.

CLEAN IN MILK
Clean lace in milk to which a very little bluing has been added. Squeeze in this until all the dirt is removed.

COOKING CARROTS
Cook carrots in salted water, with much water if they are old, and very little if they are young.

PURIFYING WATER
A small piece of charcoal helps purify the water in which cut flowers are kept.

much water if they are old, and very little if they are young.

Ancients Know Nothing About Dictionaries

(Ernest Weekly, In The Atlantic Monthly.)

As to the ubiquity of the dictionary there can be no question. Within the memory of the oldest now alive there have been few houses—at least of those possessing any books at all—whose library has not included an out-of-date Barclay, an obsolete abridgment of Johnson, an early Webster, or some equally useful misleader of the mind that thirsts for information.

It was not always thus, for "the dictionary," as we understand the word, is a comparatively modern element in life. Dictionary is not a classical Latin word, any more than lexicon is classical Greek. To the medieval scholar a dictionary was a collection of "dictons" in phrases, put together for the use of pupils studying Latin.

We find dictionaries first used in this sense in the thirteenth century

by an Englishman, John Garland, and dictionary in the fourteenth; but the first work published in England under the English title "dictionary" was the famous Latin-English dictionary of Sir Thomas Eliot, which appeared in 1538, the year before Robert Estienne, or the greatest of all dictionary making dynasties, published his Dictionnaire Francois-Latin. The word lexicon—the neuter of the Greek adjective lexikos, "relating to words"—dates in its accepted current sense from the Renaissance only.

The earliest lexicographical efforts were probably made by Roman students of the Greek language and culture. We are told that Cato learned Greek at 80, a task which he would hardly have tackled without realizing the importance of tabulating his newly acquired vocabulary.

Teachers naturally compiled lists of words and phrases for the use of their pupils and such vocabularies would be copied and attain some circulation; but it is obvious that what we call a dictionary was made possible only by the invention of printing.

How To Make Homes Cozy

USE WIDE ARCH FOR WALL

If there is a wide doorway in a room, that is not used much—as in the case of one of two doorways to another room—shut the doors, put a sofa or group before it and hang some drapery or other hanging over it. It furnishes more "wall space."

Tomatoes Are Versatile In Chance For Use

There is no better way of making use of the tonic vitamin qualities the tomato offers, than to use it in salads. For this purpose the tomato is cool, succulent and colorful—all desirable qualities in either a salad, vegetable or fruit.

It combines well with any salad dressing—French, mayonnaise, cream or boiled dressings may be used with it. Many variations of these dressings are equally possible to give variety to the tomato salad.

SLIP OFF SKINS
To prepare tomatoes for salads remove the skins by first plunging them into hot water, holding them over a gas flame. Then thoroughly chill the tomatoes before slicing. This keeps the fruit firm and removes its slipperiness of flavor.

Several tomato salads make use of the tomato cups which are made by scooping out the center of flesh of the fruit. These cups may be filled with any one of a variety of mixtures, such as minced meats and sliced celery, or chopped kitchen or tongue with peas, cloves, capers and gherkins or chopped cucumbers alone combined with mayonnaise or boiled dressing give tomato salads of distinctly different types.

With French dressing, thin slices of tomato and Bermuda onions and finely chopped pepper or cress make an excellent salad provided the vinegar used in the dressing has a taragon flavor.

GOOD LUNCHEON SALADS
Hard-cooked eggs and tomatoes offer good luncheon salads. Although there are many ways of combining

Recipe For A Bachelor Who Likes Salads

"Can you give a mere bachelor who keeps house a sure recipe for French dressing that he can turn over to his cook?" Indeed, we can, says the New York Tribune.

One teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon dry mustard, one-half teaspoon paprika, one-half teaspoonful celery salt, two slices onion, six tablespoonfuls olive oil, two tablespoonfuls vinegar.

KEEPING COLD
Mix the dry seasonings and add the vinegar and oil, beating with a fork. Add the onion and keep in a cold place one hour or more, remove the onion. If garlic is approved, of drop in a bit while stirring and remove when preference dictates. Substitute these two foods in salad form, one of the best-looking salads is made by placing quarters of the hard-cooked eggs between quarters of the tomatoes and leaves of hearts of lettuce. A strip of tomato may be used both as a garnish for each quarter of egg and to hold it together.

Tomato cups filled with an aspic jellies made with a white stock, seasoned with onion and capers, offer possibilities as decorative salad. Chopped sweetbreads, chicken, veal, tongue, ham or calves' brains may be added to the aspic as desired.

lemon juice in place of vinegar for fruit salads.

If the dressing is made by temperment rather than rule, this direction is sufficient: Let the oil be put in by a spendthrift, the vinegar by a miser and the stirring be done by a madman.

WOMAN AILING FOR A YEAR

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Happy Results

Newcastle, Pa.—"I was all run-down and everybody thought I was going into a decline. I had been ailing for a year with pains in my right side so that I could hardly stand on my feet. When I walked I felt as if something was falling. I was not able to do any work and had a nervous most of the time. She spoke to me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I gave it a fair trial. Some women think one bottle should cure them, but I did not stop at that. I took more and got better and am able ever since to do my own housework. There was a time, when I would complain of not feeling well, that my husband would say, 'Go to the doctor.' But now he will tell me to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's, and it has always helped me. I have had druggists tell me that they had something better, but they don't tell me that now, for I take no other. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound now for five years. Any woman who cares to call or write, I will be glad to tell her how it helped me.—Mrs. MABEL LIST SHERBURN, 515 Newell Ave., Newcastle, Pa.

NEVADA REQUESTS FEDERAL HELP IN FIGHTING FLAMES

Disastrous Forest Fires Advance to Portals of Yosemite National Park

By Associated Press

San Francisco, Calif.—A forest fire thought to have been started several days ago by a blast set off by convict road workers, was sweeping through a heavily timbered area bordering on the north fork of the Merced river early Thursday, two miles from the Portal, the entrance to Yosemite national park.

This development came with the arrival here of Colonel W. B. Greely, chief of the United States Forest Service, from Washington. Colonel Greely announced Thursday that a reserve force of experienced forest fire fighters from other western states would be available within the next two weeks for emergencies.

The Yosemite fire has burned over 12,000 acres in Mariposa-co and 100 men were attempting Thursday to fight it away from the national park. In the same area, a fire Wednesday night destroyed the Bowers Cave resort near Merced, Calif.

"The State of Nevada, through Senator T. L. Oddie, became concerned over the California forest fire situation Wednesday when he telegraphed President Coolidge requesting 'immediate federal aid in stamping out forest fires in California' close to the Nevada line."

The Dog Valley fire is destroying some of the finest timber on the eastern boundary of California. One of the main highways from Nevada to the coast was closed Thursday because of the blaze.

The fewest cases of sleeping sickness occur among tramps and dairymen, records show.

Jan. Van Albat, the world's tallest man, is 9 feet 3 1/4 inches in height, 23 years old, and has smoked since he was a boy.

Rancher Says Snakes Have Code Of Ethics All Their Own

Reno, Nev.—Even a snake has a code of ethics.

Just do a good turn for one, and you'll soon find out. Mister Snake will show his appreciation first chance he gets.

For "snake"—a "rattler" especially—is first of all appreciative. That's one of its main traits. And it is clean and harmless. Makes as good a pet as any dog or cat.

But, oh, how jealous it is! Don't arouse its envy. You'll be sorry if you do.

Such, at least, is the philosophy of Frederick Fritz, 29, irrigator and farmer living out on a ranch on the edge of Dry Lake, 16 miles from here.

And Fritz has had plenty of experience. For several years now he's been catching and training desert "rattlers" just for fun.

"It was quite accidentally that I learned I had control over them," says Fritz.

"My cabin had become infested with mice. Unable to get a cat, I decided to have a rattler around the place. I found one on the desert, cornered him and took him home on a long stick and turned him loose. "Next morning I stepped on him. He could have struck me, but he didn't."

"Right then and there I lost all fear of snakes. We became good pals right off the bat. Why, say, that snake would follow me on short trips—and sometimes on long ones. And if he didn't go all the way, he'd come to meet me when he saw me coming up the trail at night."

"Ever since, I've kept half a dozen or so about the place."

"Sometimes they answer the call of the wilds and go back to the desert. But many come back after they've been gone for months."

Fritz declares he never has been bitten.

"I have had them strike at me,"

FREDERICK FRITZ AND HIS PET RATTLESNAKES

he says. "But they've always struck me with their mouths."

"But then it was only because they were jealous. I had a big rattler I called Bob. If I picked up another snake first in the morning, he hit me pretty hard."

"And rattlers seem to have an understanding with each other. When one comes across a mouse, he rattles. And he always gets to keep it. The others never will try to take his prey away from him."

"Yes, snakes have a code of ethics, too."

FEATURE-LENGTH COLOR MOVIE IS PROVED SUCCESS

Other Big Pictures of Future
Expected to Follow First Attempt

Hollywood—A few more natural films like Paramount's "Wanderer of the Wasteland" are likely to spoil audiences for black and white.

Revisiting the eye with its reflection of nature's own complexion, this technicolor product heralds the dawn
of the movie's tint cycle.

First feature length picture wholly done in hue, it dissipates several objections hitherto set up against such innovation. Color handled as it is in "Wanderer of the Wasteland" does not distract from the drama. Nor does it tend to destroy illusion. On the contrary, these elements are enhanced. There is closer approach to reality.

It is like opening a window in the theater. In place of the interposed screen.

The fuzzy edge and blotchy jump of first color film experiments has been wholly eliminated.

During the novelty period audiences will have to grow accustomed to tint just as they had to the use of pictures that moved in the first place.
But eventually, inevitably, all films
will be made in color.

Paramount, for its first venture, wisely selected Zane Grey's story of the desert. The setting in the painted, rugged country adjacent to Death Valley is peculiarly fit for such treatment.

And Irvin Willat, director, is to be congratulated for subordinating neither color nor dramatic values, one to the other.

Jack Holt is the "Wanderer." Believing he has slain his brother, he takes refuge in the wasteland, where he lives a primitive life and meets weird adventure.

The most fantastic is an encounter with a jealous maniac who has taken his wife to the sandy solitudes to hide her from imaginary lovers.

The maniac destroys both himself
and the woman with a rock-axe lance. These parts are respectively played by Gary Irving and Kathryn Williams, and very well played.

Noah Beery is a desert rat who befriends the "Wanderer" and is in turn saved by the latter from gold mine bandits.

The romantic element is contributed by Holt and Billie Dove. Beery's is his best performance—unless I have been tricked to that opinion by color photography.

Color gives all the principals remarkable semblance of vitality.

Some of the close-ups are fairly radiant, providing audiences a new and truer key to the physical personality of the players, notably Holt, Beery and Miss Dove.

First beneficiaries of a refined color process, richly reflecting the tint of eyes, hair, complexion, Jack Holt and Billie Dove should find their fan mail increasing considerably.

The movie star alert to the benefits of personal appeal may soon insist that he be pictured only in color.

HAS PLAN TO ADD SIXTH GREAT LAKE

Canadian Engineer Sees Possibilities for Water Power
in Venture

Toronto—Ocean-going steamers
before long may sail up the St. Lawrence, through the Great Lakes and into the heart of Canada's mid-west wheat empire over the waters of an artificially created sixth great lake.

Other ships can go up the Mississippi up Lake Michigan and across Lake Superior and, too, reach the sixth lake.

The project which would create this sixth lake, would make possible the generation of a vast amount of hydro-electric power and would restore the lakes to the water level of 50 years ago.

And the cost? It is estimated at $5,000,000.

This tremendous undertaking is the idea of Ralph Keemie, Canadian engineer, who has spent almost a lifetime studying the water-dotted section of Canada between Lake Superior and Hudson's Bay. Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, in considering the project.

An area as large as Lake Erie can furnish the basin for the sixth great lake says Keemie. Into this basin, north of Lake Superior, can be diverted the waters that now flow into Hudson's Bay.

All that is necessary, says Keemie,
is construction of three dams and three diversion channels for the three main rivers upon which the new lake will depend. Access to the lake would be effected by the English and Winnipeg rivers, which would be converted into navigable streams to Lake Winnipeg, and by canal to Lake Superior.

The project would more than pay
for itself in a short time in water power and navigation benefit, says Keemie.

Not one of the greatest advantages is seen in its possible solution of the controversy over Chicago's withdrawal of water from the Great Lakes for sewage disposal.

"Chicago is drawing off 10,000 cubic feet of water a second," explains Keemie. "This diversion has lowered
the lakes' level about five and a half inches. Every inch the lake level is lowered cuts the cargo capacity of big vessels and costs many cities millions to dredge their harbors so big freighters can continue to dock. The loss in power is enormous.

"With Chicago withdrawal cut them.

At The Farm Union Festival

Thousands of farmers flocked around the floats which took part in the parade Wednesday morning after they were parked in Pierce park in the afternoon. The float pictured above attracted a good deal of attention because it carried a Holstein cow which was content all day with munching the grain and alfalfa placed before it.

At the right is one of the farmers who got a "big kick" out of the picnic. He was looking for the "coffee stand" when the picture was taken.

HANGMAN GROWS CHICKEN-HEARTED AFTER 200 SWING

Says He Is Through After 23 Years As Britain's Official
Neckbreaker

Rochdale, England.—Gentle John
Ellis, friend of children and chickens and racing dogs, and noted for the soft touch he had when he shaved customers in his barber shop, has just resigned his other job—Brit-tain's official hangman!

After 23 years of it, after breaking the necks of nearly 200 criminals, Ellis says he is through. And that's all he will say. All his official life he has been mum as an oyster. He refers to his silence with a touch of pride in his letter of resignation to the prison commission.

"I have felt honored, too, on numerous occasions by your confidence
in my discretion—a trust which I hope you will agree that I on my part have always faithfully endeavored to justify."

Reporters used to swarm around Ellis. Never a word. Customers used to flock to his barber shop in the hope of drawing him out while he gave them a shave. Never a syllable.
Finally, about two years ago, he gave up the barbering because the inquisitiveness of people who dropped in the shop became a nuisance.

Got Reward for His Silence

The fee paid by the government for a hanging job is two pounds and ten shillings. But Ellis always got an extra two pounds and ten shillings for "discreet behavior." It's a quaint term and comes about in this way:
In the old days some of the official hangmen used to pick up a pretty penny by going to some saloon after the execution and talking to all and sundry.

A huge crowd was always attracted, many drinks were bought and the owner of the "pub" paid the hangman a percentage. Ellis never pulled this stunt. He always slipped as quietly out of town as he slipped in with his grim little satchel in which he had his pincions, his white cap and other dread things that belonged to his calling.

Here in this manufacturing town
of 50,000 people, Ellis has lived all his life, there are not many yarns about him to be picked up. You learn that he has a very happy home life,
he and his wife being devoted pals;
that all the children on the block
adore him; that he is an enthusiastic breeder of whippets, as the north country racing dogs are called; that he is also a chicken raiser and so tender-hearted that he had to get a neighbor to kill a pet chicken for him.

In his time he has played a central part in the most celebrated executions of the last quarter century.
He executed Dr. Crippen, the famous wife murderer who escaped with his sweetheart to Quebec and was arrested upon landing. He executed the unfortunate Irishman, Sir Roger Casement, who was condemned to death
for treason when he sought to raise a rebellion in war time against England, landing in Ireland from a German ship. He executed also Major Armstrong, the well-to-do lawyer convicted of poisoning his wife.

Keemie cannot see the completion of his project before another decade
or two, but when it is done, he says it will become a priceless asset to the United States and Canada.

"Before long," he adds, "the Great Lakes will be used to make sea-

DOOMED MEN DRINK AS SOLDIERS AIM

Executions in Mexico Are Carried Out in This Rather Strange Manner

Soledad, Vera Cruz, Mexico — The
fiddler plays while the executioner works.

Federal officers want it that way.
And the whole town turns out to see the condemned man go to his death.

It's an object lesson to others.
Take the execution of Adrian Hernandez. The band wasn't there, but nearly all Soledad was.

Hernandez, a soldier in the army
of General Eugenio Martinez, had been caught robbing a store. Now strict orders had been issued by Martinez against looting. And Hernandez had disobeyed them.

A summary court martial was held that night. Hernandez was ordered shot at dawn.

DRINKS AND SMOKES

The break of day found a grim column of troops wending its way through the dust of the adobe lined streets. In the center walked Hernandez, a stoical figure, nonchalantly smoking a cigaret.

Arriving at the scene of the robbery, officers quickly formed a hollow square. Inside stood Hernandez and the firing squad. Outside, pressed against the files of soldiers, were the citizens of Soledad.

Men, women, children — all had come to see the final act.

The doomed man is led to the adobe
wall of the store he robbed. A bottle of tequila—the fiery drink of Mexico is handed him. He drains it to the last drop, then hurls the empty bottle against a rock.

He lights another cigaret, says a few words to the officer commanding
the firing squad, who draws some money from his pocket.

A soldier leaves—to return in a few minutes with another bottle of tequila.

DEFIANT UNTO DEATH

Two swallows, and the bottle is crashed against a rock.

Hernandez draws himself up. Defiantly he faces the store he robbed,
his back to the firing squad.

Three sharp words break the early morning stillness — "Ready — Aim — Fire."

Hernandez has paid the penalty
for his theft.

Lt. Col. Ramirez steps forward.
His quiet voice sternly rises:

"Men, let your comrade serve as an example. You came to give guaranties—not to rob. March!"

LAWYERS DENY RUMOR OF TELEPHONE RAISE

Madison—No movement for a general increase in telephone rates in Wisconsin has been undertaken by the Wisconsin Telephone Co. Milwaukee attorneys for the company
Thursday advised Chairman Lewis E.
Gettle of the state railroad commission.

The attorneys communicated with the commission following announcement that Gettle will seek a conference with commissions of other states in the near future looking toward methods for preventing general telephone increases.

Chairman Gettle said Thursday that no definite plans have yet been worked out for cooperation between states on the telephone matter. He said, however, that arrangements will be perfected in the near future.

STATE TREASURER EMBEZZLES FUNDS

Manner in Which Connecticut
Official Misappropriated
Money Is Discovered

By Associated Press
Putnam, Conn. — The manner in which G. Harold Gilpatrick, state treasurer, was able to embezzle $262,000
from the First National bank of Putnam, of which he was cashier was revealed Thursday.

Many people took Liberty bonds to the bank and asked for Gilpatrick himself to take them over, so great was their confidence in him.

Gilpatrick in most instances failed to note on the books the receipts that he gave in behalf of the bank, and diverted the securities to his own credit.

The directors and the bank examiners had no means of knowing the bank's responsibility for such securities, it is stated. Another method of Gilpatrick converting funds, it is stated, was to put through notes of several thousand dollars each with fictitious endorsements.

The bank is closed and in charge of a receiver, Gilpatrick is in a hospital
as a result of shooting himself.

RUSS CONCESSION HUNTING IS LONG AND TEDIOUS JOB

American Businessmen Chafe Over Countless Delays in Red's Country

By Associated Press

Moscow—Concession hunting in Soviet Russia is a long and tedious job.
Men spend months and even years at
it. Everlasting patience is a prerequisite, and everlasting hope is the only thing that will see one through.
Snappy American businessmen particularly chafe and fume over the countless delays, and one Norwegian who has followed his proposal in vain from one department to another for 12 months, calls it a game of "button, button, who's got the overcoat."

There are three principal steps, submission to Little Committee, submission to the Big Committee, and final submission to the Soviet of People's Commissioners. During this process the concession hunter is almost certain to encounter an oriental love of bargaining and its accompanying disbelief in the possibility of any one being so naive as to say, the first time, just what he really means. Thus the game goes on, the hunters throwing out provisions which they inserted, never with the hope of getting them, but only to bargain with.

In two years the People's Commissars have granted only 34 concessions.
They are zealous against giving away
something for nothing, and the shrewd foreigner who comes in with the idea
that he is going to get rich quickly and put something through slyly and speedily, usually finds himself, after a

FALL FROM LOAD OF HAY INSTANTLY KILLS MAN

Rhineland—Adam Kassack, 65-

was instantly killed Wednesday after-fall from a load of hay on his farm near here.

few conversations with the commissars, grasping firmly to his shirt with hopes that it, too, will not be taken from him.

Four concessions have been granted to American interests, one for trading in Moscow, two to drill for oil, and one to prospect for gold. A larger number have been given to Germans,
and notable among these is the grant
to build a railroad from the Rebyansk
district to Petrograd, and to exploit 2,700,000 acres of timber land.
